

CONFERENCE IN PARIS WILL BE RESUMED SUNDAY

Heads Of German Govt. To Meet To Decide Fate Of Country

BULLETIN. Paris, July 18 —(UP)—Announcement was made late today that the visiting German statesmen, Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, will meet with French, British, American, Japanese and Belgian representatives tomorrow morning.

ARRIVED IN PARIS

Paris, July 18 —(AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius of Germany reached here this afternoon for conferences with representatives of the world powers which are considering extension of financial aid to their country.

Premier Laval, Aristide Briand, the Foreign Minister, and Pierre Flandin, Minister of Finance, were waiting for them on the station platform, wearing formal frock coats and top hats.

Ambassador von Hoesch, Germany's representative at Paris, presented them to the visitors and after cordial handshakes all around the German statesmen were escorted to waiting automobiles.

Police held back a large crowd which had gathered at the station long before the train pulled in. There were many German residents of Paris and many Frenchmen who sympathize with a policy of friendship toward Germany. The police had a hard time, for all were eager to see the visitors.

"Vive le President," the crowd cried, but they might have been shouting for either Dr. Brüning or M. Laval, since both are the heads of their respective governments.

A score of German embassy officials were inside the police line, and newspaper photographers were permitted to come close enough for pictures as Premier Laval walked toward the street with Dr. Brüning. M. Briand was beside Dr. Curtius.

The preliminary greetings were in French.

"Bon jour, Monsieur Laval," said Dr. Curtius, extending his hand to the French Premier.

The Premier replied in French, expressing hope the visitors had had a pleasant journey.

GERMANS HOPEFUL

Berlin, July 18 —(AP)—The hopes and fears of the Fatherland went with her statesmen to Paris today to convince France that unless financial aid is forthcoming Germany's crisis may become Europe's catastrophe.

Millions of Germans were hoping that Chancellor Brüning and his Foreign Minister, Dr. Julius Curtius, would be able to secure French collaboration in a long term loan or credits—and fearing that the political conditions attached to such assistance would be unacceptable to the Reich.

The Chancellor himself, when he left Paris, said that he was optimistic that his parley with Premier Laval would inaugurate a new era in Franco-German relations.

"The Foreign Minister and I are proceeding to Paris," he said, "with the firm will to enter upon an open, mutual interchange of views, the result of which, I hope, will clear the way for trustful collaboration. I hope that these personal contacts will help clear the situation and give a visible proof of international solidarity."

New Decrees Issued

Shortly before they left, President von Hindenburg issued a decree strengthening the government's power to suppress newspapers "endangering public safety" and compelling all papers of whatever political faith to publish emergency decrees and urgent appeals to the people.

The failure of the anti-government press to print notice of the bank holiday led to this move, said Gottfried Treviranus, cabinet minister without portfolio, announced over the radio that beginning Monday bank restrictions would be relaxed to allow savings banks depositors to withdraw not more than 20 marks (about $4.60) daily from savings accounts and 100 marks (about $25) from checking accounts. He also revealed that a special passport tax of 100 marks would be levied on Germans leaving the country.

The tension in all Germany, judging from the press and from official comment, is greater than that which signed when the Hoover moratorium hung in the balance.

Cleaning Clothes In Naphtha Fatal To Girl

Kewanee, Ill., July 18 —(AP)—Cleaning her dress with naphtha in a pan on a gas stove, Mary Louise Thompson, 14, was burned to death last night. The naphtha exploded from a pilot light on the stove and the girl, enveloped in flames, rolled down the stairs to the porch. She died in a hospital three hours later.

Pershing's Name Is Given Paris Street

Paris, July 18 —(AP)—The name of General Pershing is to be given to a Paris street now known as the Boulevard de Verdun, the city council decided today. It is a new thoroughfare on the edge of the suburb of Neuilly adjacent to the Bois de Boulogne.

EXPECT FALL TO LEAVE FOR CELL WITHIN 48 HOURS

Photographers Camped Around His Home Face Threats

BULLETIN

Santa Fe, N. M., July 18 —(UP)—Commitment papers for Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, were received here today from Washington.

United States Marshal Joseph Tondre was instructed to telephone Dr. J. H. Gambrell of El Paso, Fall's physician, to arrange for Fall to be delivered to the prison gates.

Marshal Tondre then is expected to meet Fall at the gates with the papers that will commit the former Cabinet member to prison for a year and a day on a charge of accepting a bribe in the oil lease cases.

El Paso, Tex., July 18 —(UP)—The physical condition of Albert B. Fall will determine how and when the former Secretary of the Interior will go to Santa Fe, N. M., to serve a year and a day sentence. Dr. J. H. Gambrell, Fall's physician today told the United States Marshal Joseph Tondre.

Tondre, at Santa Fe, N. M., telephoned Dr. Gambrell that the commitment papers had arrived and that Dr. Gambrell was to accompany Fall to the penitentiary, where Fall will serve the term on a charge of accepting a bribe in the oil lease cases.

"I told the Marshal that I would give Mr. Fall an examination and determine just when and how he would leave," Dr. Gambrell said. "The Marshal said there was no fixed time for Mr. Fall to appear at Santa Fe."

"Mr. Fall is very weak and I have not decided yet as to whether he will go by train or automobile or when he will go."

It was believed, however, that Fall might leave by automobile tonight and drive to his ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., and continue the trip to Santa Fe Sunday.

El Paso, Tex., July 18 —(UP)—Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, today held the threat of a shotgun over camera men who are seeking to photograph him as he leaves to serve a prison sentence at Santa Fe, N. M.

Police called to the Fall home last night after a disturbance, reported they found the former Secretary in pajamas, as usual, sitting in his room with a shotgun across his knees.

The officers were called by Mrs. Fall after an unidentified photographer was alleged to have thrown a stone and struck Mrs. C. C. Chase, Fall's daughter, who said she unknowingly turned a hose on a camera man concealed behind a fig tree.

Mrs. Chase said the stone struck her on the leg but did not injure her. She said she was watering the flowers and plants around the big ranch house. She lifted the hose to shoot a stream of water over fig tree and it dampened the camera.

The photographer picked up a stone and threw it, Mrs. Chase said. Members of the Fall family are opposed to any pictures being taken of Fall as he leaves to serve a year and a day in the New Mexico prison on a charge of accepting a bribe in the oil lease cases. A photographer said one member of the family claimed she would shoot the cameraman who obtained a picture.

The departure of Fall for Santa Fe is expected within the next 48 hours, as papers committing him to prison are expected in Santa Fe momentarily. Friends of Fall believe he will leave for the prison voluntarily instead of waiting for Joseph Tondre, United States Marshal in New Mexico to come for him.

Mrs. Fall and a physician, probably Dr. J. H. Gambrell, will accompany him.

Food Inspectors To Be Provided Autos

Springfield, Ill., July 18 —(UP)—State food inspectors will be provided with automobiles to make their rounds of the state Director Stuart E. Pierson of the Department of Agriculture announced today. A fleet of light machines are to be purchased by the state within the next few weeks.

Use of automobiles will give the inspectors an opportunity to visit roadside lunch stands as well as other markets and places on their route and will enable the men to cover more territory, Pierson said.

"Discontinuance of many passenger trains has handicapped food inspectors in traveling about the state," Pierson said. "With automobiles the men will be able to perform their work with more efficiency and at less expense."

A process for making industrial alcohol from natural gas waste has been developed in Canada.

TEXAS MOTHER REFUSES TO TELL OF FATAL SHOOTING: JUDGE SENDS HER TO JOIN SON IN COUNTY JAIL

Dallas, Tex., July 18 —(AP)—Mother love has prompted Mrs. Ed. Smith to join her son behind the bars of the county jail here rather than answer questions relative to a fatal shooting in front of her home. The son, Elmore, 26, is charged with the slaying of Miss Helen Ruth Lamar, 19, on June 14. Questioned by the Grand Jury, Mrs. Smith said, "that is my boy

PARKING LAW IS TO BE REWRITTEN BY THE COUNCIL

More Accommodations Will Be Provided Shoppers And Business Men

A new city parking ordinance designed to aid the merchants of Dixon as well as to accommodate the shopping public, will be submitted to the city council at the regular meeting next Tuesday evening. Mayor George C. Dixon has asked all of the commissioners and Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber to submit suggestions which are to be considered and embodied in the new ordinance which will become effective upon its passage as an emergency ordinance for the safety of the public.

City Attorney Martin Gannon is drafting the new ordinance today and the suggestions of the council members and Chief of Police will be received Monday, to be presented at the meeting Tuesday evening for discussion. Chief Van Bibber today recommended an important change in the present parking ordinance to prohibit the parking for more than one hour on Saturday evening in the streets and alleys of the business district, and also that the council furnish new and suitable signs showing the hours when parking is prohibited in such districts.

Changes Necessary. Mayor Dixon is discussing the present ordinance today stated that many changes were necessary and added that in all probability an entire new ordinance would be adopted with a view of accommodating the merchants of the city and the shopping public.

It was stated that some automobile drivers had been using their cars as a place of business on Saturday night, by parking in front of downtown places of business at an early hour in the evening and remaining until late at night. This has brought about the practice of double parking on the streets and the blocking of alleys in the business district, all of which is to be eliminated under the new ordinance. Mayor Dixon stated that with the passage of the new ordinance every provision would be rigidly enforced.

City traffic ordinances adopted by previous councils from 1923 to 1929 are to be canvassed and many changes made.

John Heckman Died At Home Yesterday

John Heckman, for many years a resident of Nacacua township and since 1928 a resident of Dixon, died Friday afternoon at 4:50 o'clock after an illness of only about two weeks duration. He died at his home, 704 Palmyra Avenue.

The funeral services will be held at the Preston chapel on Monday at 2 P. M. Burial at Mt. Union cemetery, east of Dixon. Rev. W. W. Marshall will officiate.

Mr. Heckman was born in Bedford county, Pennsylvania October 17, 1851. He was the son of Joseph and Elizabeth Heckman, who came to Nacacua township December 12, 1893. Mr. Heckman later purchased his father's farm and lived there until his removal to Dixon in 1928.

In 1892 he was married to Emma Lowery, who, with their two children, Edith Mae Bennett, residing east of Dixon, and a son, Louis L., who lives at home, survive to mourn his death. There are three grandchildren, Alice Leona Hill, Chester Lee Hill and Robert Heckman.

Four brothers, James M., Josiah, Jacob C. and Addison L., and one sister, Mary Ellen, preceded him in death.

Dr. Mayo Of Third Generation On Staff

Rochester, Minn., July 18 —(AP)—Doctor Mayo of the third generation took his place among local surgeons today.

He is Dr. Charles W. Mayo, who became the fourteenth general surgeon on the staff of the local clinic, headed by his father, Dr. Charles H. Mayo, and his uncle, Dr. W. J. Mayo. His grandfather, Dr. W. W. Mayo, founded the medical and surgical center.

The youthful surgeon, 32, has been assistant to his father and uncle four years. He was graduated from Princeton University, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Minnesota.

Already, associates say, he has contributed several papers to medical literature.

RECLUSE FOUND DEAD

Kewanee, Ill., July 18 —(AP)—Louis Huber, a recluse, was found dead in his Sheffield home today by Jimmy Masters, a mail carrier.

He was seated at a table before an untouched meal. There was no indication of foul play and an undertaker said he had been dead for two weeks.

OUTLOOK FOR WEEK.

Chicago, July 18 —(AP)—Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:

For the Region of the Great Lakes—Scattered showers at beginning of week and again toward close; temperatures near normal. For Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri Valleys and Northern and Central Great Plains—Mostly fair and moderately cool over northern sections and somewhat unsettled with scattered showers and temperatures near or slightly above normal over southern portions first part of week; scattered showers again toward end of week, with temperatures near normal.

KEMPSTER DENIES ANY CONNECTION WITH ANY GANG

Serving of Warrant on Highway Policeman Ordered Held Up

Sgt. Oliver W. "Buck" Kempster of Sterling, who has many friends throughout the northern part of the state and whose indictment with 31 others at Peoria on an alleged liquor conspiracy charge caused a sensation, says that the charge is a frame-up and emphatically denies any connection with a big still at Carbon Cliff, the gang under indictment or any other gang.

While it has not been officially announced what specific charges have been made against the officer, it is believed they are those of allowing the moving of liquor over his territory unmolested. His fellow officers deny any such order had been given.

The warrant had not been served on Kempster today, being held by U. S. Deputy Marshal Ben. under unexplained orders from the office of District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson of Chicago to defer execution of the writ.

Madison, Ill. Bank Robbed This Morn

Madison, Ill., July 18 —(UP)—Two men held up and robbed the First National Bank of approximately $6,000 here today and escaped after making the cashier and janitor of the bank captive.

The robbers escaped in an automobile driven by a third man. It was the second time in ten months and the third in three years that the bank had been robbed. Three years ago bandits obtained $23,000. The men met Joseph Oles, 23, janitor of the bank, when he arrived at 8:45 A. M. They bound him and waited for C. O. Naumer, the cashier, to arrive at 9 o'clock. Naumer was forced to open the vault.

Police said they believed they knew the identity of the robbers. Six or seven men were seen loitering about the bank last night. Some of them were recognized by the night patrolman.

The robbers were believed to have been St. Louis gangsters and St. Louis police were asked to search for the men seen about the bank last night.

The money was insured. The Madison County Bankers' Association has a standing reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of bank robbers.

Three Saved From Their Burning Car

Beloit, Wis., July 18 —(UP)—Pinned under their blazing automobile, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Olson, Chicago, and Mrs. A. Jenkins, Rockton, Ill., were saved from burning to death yesterday by passing motorists. The car turned over and caught fire after a blowout.

A human can lose about 40 per cent of his blood and not die.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

START SUBWAY SOON

Several car loads of piling have been unloaded along the Illinois Central right of way at the Dixon state hospital grounds where the new subway is to be constructed this summer. It is expected that work will be started on the excavation and grading within the next ten days.

"THE HUT" OPENED

Arthur Lester and Dan Kaufman, former high school students, who are now attending college, have opened a refreshment stand on North Peoria avenue and Boyd street which is known as "The Hut." Both were outstanding athletes during their high school experience and are deserving of the support of the public in their business venture.

ON ROLLING SKIS

Morris R. Chapman of Chicago was in Dixon today on his way to Los Angeles. He represents a big publishing house and is using a novel method of transportation, rolling skis. Where the pavements are smooth enough Mr. Chapman wears his skis, which are mounted on rollers, and makes rapid progress. He is 62 years old.

YOUNG SHOPLIFTERS

Harold and Louis Watkins, aged 14 and 13 respectively, of near Sterling were taken to the police station yesterday afternoon for questioning. Complaint of shoplifting was made by a proprietor of a downtown place of business and the boys were found to have selected a number of compact from the stock. The articles were returned and because of their years, the brothers were lectured and warned and then released, the proprietor of the place of business declining to prefer charges.

NAMED BRADY VILLAGE

Brady Village is the name that has been given a very attractive location southeast of the city on state highway route 2, where several vacant lots have been improved by J. M. Brady. One of the most attractive fixtures in the village is a huge 16 foot black and white barrel, made of reinforced concrete. The barrel is pure white and the hoops black. A miniature bungalow has also been constructed from which refreshments are served. A white picket fence surrounds the entire village which also provides horse shoe pitching and croquet courses.

DISREGARDED SIGNS

Chester Bishop of this city disregarded the stop and warning signs at the corner of West Water street and North Peoria avenue last evening about 10 o'clock with the result that he struck two cars, damaging both. He was taken to the police station where Police Magistrate A. E. Simon assessed a fine of $5 and costs on a reckless driving charge. Bishop was also to pay for the damages to both cars.

Bishop drove up on Peoria avenue from Water street and crashed into a car which was driving north on Peoria avenue and which belonged to Grove Burch of Sterling. Bishop's car bounded away and struck another car belonging to D. H. Stenmark of Polo. None of the occupants was injured. At the police station Bishop admitted seeing both the warning and stop signs.

Outdoor Employment In State Increases

Springfield, Ill., July 18 —(UP)—Increased outdoor employment, mostly on farms and for hard road construction, was recorded between May 15 and June 15 according to a monthly summary of a survey taken in principal cities of the state and issued by the State Department of Labor here today. As against this, however, were seasonal declines in manufacturing industries.

Public construction projects such as road work and election of buildings, were responsible for most of the increased employment in outside work, while there also was an increase in the demand for farm labor due to harvesting and other work, according to the report.

Decreases in factory employment and in salaries was due to seasonal declines in manufacturing, especially in the farm implement group, the report stated. There was an increase in the number of persons seeking employment as recorded by the state's free employment office. This was due largely to the fact that many youths were applying for work during the school vacation months.

Innocent Youth To Get His Freedom

Chicago, July 18 —(AP)—Eugene Piantkowski, 19, who since March 28 has been serving a year-to-life sentence at the Pontiac reformatory for a robbery he did not commit, will be released Monday.

The order vacating the sentence will then be issued by Judge Phillip J. Finnegan, on the strength of a confession of three members of a bandit gang that they and not Piantkowski held up a delicatessen store here.

The three were Nick Berdnick, Kenneth Koopchick and Joseph Barkowski, who police said have also confessed to a murder and a series of other crimes. There was a striking resemblance between Berdnick and Piantkowski who had been convicted on testimony of witnesses to the holdup.

HEAVY GUARD IS PLACED ON THREE THUGS AT WATSEKA

Mob Violence Threatened Against Bank Robber Who Killed Deputy

Watseka, Ill., July 18 —(UP)—Fearing mob violence, officials of the Watseka jail where they were holding three bandits who robbed a bank at Buckley, killed a Deputy Sheriff, and were captured after one of the most exciting man hunts in the history of Eastern Illinois.

The men held were Joseph Mulchowski, 32, Chicago; Pierce J. Lanigan, 38, New York; and Edward "Jake" Byrnes, 32, New York. Mulchowski and Byrnes were wounded by a posse.

Mulchowski was identified as the actual slayer of Deputy Sheriff Henry Ennen, 45, who was shot down as he stood, helpless, with his hands in the air, his empty revolver at his feet where he had dropped it in token of surrender.

Lanigan, the only one of the bandit trio who escaped injury in the wild chase in which an airplane, automobiles and a posse of more than 500 took part, told authorities he was wanted in connection with postoffice robberies at Garden City, N. Y., Miami Beach, Fla., Clemenson College, N. C., and other eastern places.

The man hunt began yesterday after three men entered the Buckley State Bank at Buckley, near here, forced two girl employees into a vault, scooped $5200 in a bag and escaped in an automobile.

Saw Husband Shot

Mrs. Henry Ennen, wife of the deputy who later was slain, and her brother, Clarence Smith, saw the bandits leave, gave chase in an automobile and spread the alarm. After a chase of several miles, they forced the bandit car into a ditch. Deputy Ennen caught up with them there and as the bandits crawled from their wrecked car, he opened fire. Two men fled to the passing auto of R. H. Liebenow of Sheldon, forced him out and sped away.

Mulchowski, wounded in the head and cut off from escape by Ennen's fire, crawled into a culvert, squirmed through it and emerged on the opposite side to meet Ennen face to face.

He staggered from the tunnel a fraction of a second after Ennen had emptied his gun. The officer, surprised, dropped the revolver, raised his hands, and shouted "I surrender." In answer, Mulchowski shot him through the heart, according to Mrs. Ennen, who was only a few feet away.

Before Mulchowski could escape a posse arrived from Buckley, captured him, then speeded on in chase of his two companions.

By that time the alarm was widespread over three counties and Delbert Koerner, an airplane pilot, had taken off in his biplane from Kankakee to join in the chase. With Koerner directing the attack from the air the posse closed in slowly upon the fleeing pair. Near Piper City, Lanigan and Byrnes had another wreck and fled on foot to the farm of Will Brown.

Russell Aids Search

Russell Brown, 15, saw the men disappear and directed the search when the posse arrived.

"Wait, I'll show you which way they went," said the boy as he climbed atop a corn crib to direct. Reaching the top, he espied the men half covered by corn, in the crib. The sight so frightened him he dived head first down a crab chute and scooted out at the feet of the possemen.

Byrnes and Lanigan surrendered after the boy had recovered from his fright and told the deputies the men were in the crib. Byrnes was bleeding badly from a head wound. The bandits were returned to Buckley and were held last night at a Coroner's jury. Feeling ran high and when threats had been made by a mob of 500 men, officers brought all three prisoners to the jail here. An actual attempt on Mulchowski's life was made by Clarence Smith, who tried to crawl through a window into a doctor's office where Mulchowski was being dressed. He carried a revolver and declared he intended to kill Mulchowski.

MISSOURI FEELS TREMBOR

New Madrid, Mo., July 18 —(AP)—A distant earthquake shook buildings, rattled windows and swayed telephone poles and trees here at 8:52 A. M. today. So far as is known no one was injured and no serious damage resulted. Old residents said the shock was the most severe of any in recent years. New Madrid is in the center of an earthquake region.

MISS FREEDOM, ALOOF FROM HUMANS, WILL SOON GET HER NECK WASHED AND SHINE AGAIN IN SUN OF WASHINGTON

Washington, July 18 —(AP)—Soon freedom will get her neck washed and shine again in the sun.

Already, with a ladder alongside each bar, she is waiting her brief, quadrennial season of human companionship.

She's past seventy years old now, this noble-browed Miss Freedom who keeps solitary vigil on top the Capitol dome. She's inclined to stay aloof—and aloof from mere mortals. But the longer they leave her to herself, the dustier she gets.

INJUNCTION HAS NOT TERMINATED CLAMMING WORK

Clammers At Work In Front Of Page Property In Ogle Today

The injunction writ issued by Judge Harry L. Heer at Galena yesterday restraining clammers from operating in Rock river in front of the Page property in Lee county, served only to extend the clamming operations further upstream today. This morning at 9 o'clock a fleet of at least six dredges had moved up the river from the disputed territory and were carrying on their operations in front of the Page property in Ogle county.

Sheriff Fred Richardson received the injunction writ late yesterday afternoon and immediately served notice on operators of the clamming boats who were reaping a harvest from the clam beds in front of the Page property in Lee county. It was intimated today that another injunction proceeding would be attempted to stop the clammers from digging clams from in front of the property situated in Ogle county. Some of the clammers stated that their best catches had been made within the last few days on the disputed ground.

Ira Page was taken in custody late yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Richardson and taken before Justice Grover Gehant where a warrant had been issued on complaint of George Rauch of this city, one of the clammers, who alleged that he had been attacked and beaten by Page. The hearing was continued until Wednesday, July 22.

This morning the Sheriff's office was informed that clammers were violating the injunction writ and were operating in Lee county. Sheriff Richardson went to the scene to investigate and found the clam dredges operating in Ogle county.

Ashton Editor And Family In Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dean, daughter Dorothy and son Robert returned to Ashton last night, their plans for a vacation in Kansas City and the Ozarks frustrated by an automobile accident they experienced Thursday morning one mile south of Pekin, just a few hours after they had left home for their outing.

At that point their car was wrecked in collision with one driven by Elmer Mier, a Mt. Pulaski farmer, who was hurrying to Pekin to get repairs for his threshing machine, which had broken down. Mier, driving at a high rate of speed, turned out to pass a car going in the same direction, and crashed into the Dean sedan, which Mr. Dean had driven out onto the shoulder when he saw an accident was seemingly unavoidable. The Dean car was very badly wrecked and is now being repaired in a Pekin garage, a job which will require about ten days.

Members of the Dean family escaped injuries other than a shaking up with the exception of Robert, who was cut about the head and face by glass from the shattered windshield. They returned to Dixon by train last evening, being met here by Ashton relatives, who took them home.

Separated Twins Show Improvement

Baltimore, Md., July 18 —(UP)—Continued improvement in the condition of Baltimore's "siamese twins" was reported today by Dr. Kyle W. Golley, physician who attended Mrs. Albert Proster two weeks ago when the twins were born, connected at the hips.

The children were separated in an emergency operation performed immediately after birth by Golley and two Mercy Hospital surgeons.

Both have gained weight, Golley said. A second operation, scheduled to repair the intestinal damage done in the first operation, will be performed next week, the physicians stated.

Typhoid Is Rampant In New Gold Fields

Nogales, Ariz., July 18 —(AP)—F. O. Bostwick, mining man, said eleven persons died of typhoid the day he left the newly discovered gold fields in the Tumbler district in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico. Bostwick arrived here yesterday.

He said that the disease was raging throughout the camp and that the gold rush had died down. The population, he asserted, has dwindled from 3,000 persons two months ago to a scant thousand.

Hungarian Tokay wine, made in 1610, is still held in Fuki's Wine Shop, Warsaw, Poland, and can be had for $55 a quart.

So once each four years it has become a Capital custom to climb right up and shine Miss Freedom until her bronze is as fresh as that of any sunburned bathing beauty on the sea shore. This is always done when Congress is not in session.

No professional steeplejacks and flagpole sitters will have a chance to flirt with Miss Freedom. Her opportunity to chat at last with earth-folk will be conducted with a dignity worthy of her high station. From the regular national Capitol staff workmen her callers will be chosen.

MYSTERY IMAGE
AGAIN APPEARS:
NO EXPLANATIONThrongs Again Fight
For Chance To See
Image On Wall

Chicago, July 18—(UP)—Thousands of persons flocked today to a building on the southwest side where a mysterious image of a woman and child were said to have appeared faintly outlined again upon a wall, and this time without an explanation.

Residents of the neighborhood said the image appeared again last night and that it was not a shadow cast from a lace curtain in the apartment of Sam Genna, a gangster.

Much excitement was caused earlier this week when the "miracle" appeared for several nights. Thousands of persons crowded about the wall, trampled lawns and knelt in the streets to worship. A group of newspaper men broke up the gathering by pulling down a shade in gangster Genna's window and causing the "miracle" to disappear.

When the figure reappeared last night, more than 2000 persons gathered. A covering was placed over the Genna window across the street, but believers in the "miracle" declared the figure was still there.

Others declared the light upon the wall was not an outline. Arguments developed. During the general melee that followed, Rex Cleveland, 17, was stabbed by an unidentified Negro who escaped. Some witnesses said the two argued over the image. Others said the argument started when Cleveland stepped on the Negro's toes. Physicians said Cleveland probably would die from his wound.

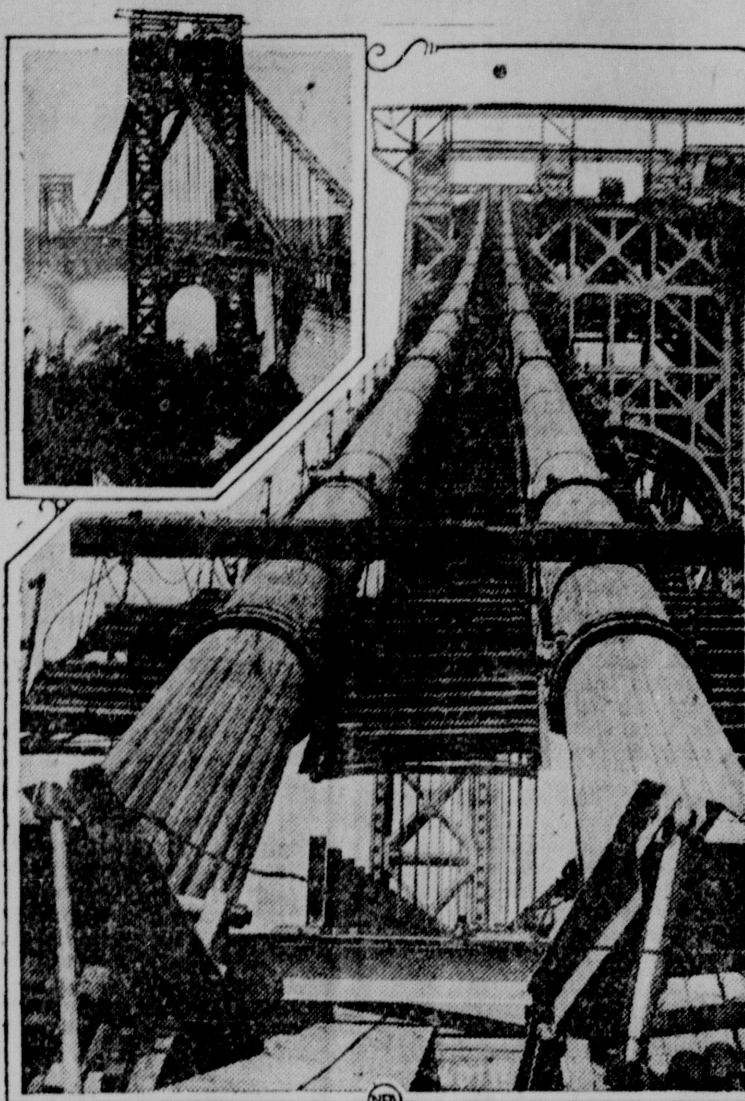

Meanwhile, newspaper men who were informed that the Genna home was in darkness when the figure reappeared, rushed back to the scene to find a new explanation. None was found.

Father Knickerbocker Gets Some New Bridgework

Towering above the historic Hudson river—a mammoth link between New Jersey and New York—the George Washington Memorial Bridge is nearing completion. Above is a striking photo of two of the giant cables which support the great structure. Inset is a general view of the span, which is expected to carry more vehicular traffic than any other bridge in the world.

SUPREME COURT
MAY BE INVOKED
IN BRIDGE FIGHTOklahoma And Texas At Loggerheads Over
Two Bridges

Denison, Tex., July 18—(AP)—The Horatius at the bridge acts staged on opposite sides of the Red River by Governors Sterling and Murray continued to draw the attention of Texas and Oklahoma today with indications the United States Supreme Court may be called to take a hand.
While the Texas Governor held the south end of the Durant-Denison free bridge, Murray continued the Oklahoma blockade of a parallel toll bridge in his campaign to give motorists free passage across the stream.
W. C. Lewis, Assistant Attorney General of Oklahoma, announced he was preparing a petition for an original action in the Supreme Court to open three free bridges over the river "once and for all time."
Texas Rangers sent to the south end of the Denison free bridge continued their armed patrol of a barbed wire fence on Texas soil after it had been torn down by Oklahoma highway employees on Governor Murray's orders. They were acting under orders of Governor Sterling, who said he was complying with a Federal court injunction.
A few motorists who crossed from Texas on the toll bridge, the owners of which obtained the injunction against opening the free span, found a barrier on the Oklahoma side and the Oklahoma road approach torn up.
Meanwhile traffic was being routed over a free bridge 30 miles away.
District Judge Porter Newman at Durant, Okla., postponed indefinitely hearing on a petition of the toll bridge owners to force removal of the Oklahoma blockade.
Governor Sterling today asked the receiver of the Denison toll bridge, the Texas Highway Commission and State Senator Jake Loy of Sherman to meet with him tomorrow in an effort to work out a plan whereby the free bridge might be opened "legally" within a short time.

PLAN EQUATOR FLIGHT
Los Angeles, July 18—(AP)—Col. Arthur Goebel, trans-continental flyer and winner several years ago of the Dole race to Hawaii, said today he has under consideration a flight around the equator in a Diesel motorized airplane.
The plans, he said, have been discussed by himself, Harold Byrd, cousin of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the explorer, and Clarence S. Williams, Los Angeles navigator.
COUPLE HELD CAPTIVE
Peoria, Ill., July 18—(UP)—Held captive by a bandit trio who drove them through country roads for almost four hours, Milton Sommers of Washington, Ill., and an unnamed girl companion, were left bound and blindfolded today on the roadside near here.
The bandits fled in Sommers' car after robbing him of four dollars. The girl was unharmed.
HEAT CAUSED DEATH
Galesburg, Ill., July 18—(AP)—Earl M. Ramsford, 47, traveling salesman from Assumption, Ill., died today of a heart attack induced by the heat. He collapsed in his car after pausing for a cold drink here. He was the father of four children. The body was sent to Decatur.

Slayer, 15, Awaits His Fate

Here is an interesting character study of Varner Corry, 15-year-old Chicago boy tried for the murder of a policeman, in whose case Judge Joseph Sabath has reserved decision until July 28. The defense insisted that boy was not responsible for his deed.

"You Gonta Hurt 'Im, Doctor?"

There was plenty of anxiety among the boy-and-dog population of Watertown, Mass., when a rabies scare brought the establishment of a public vaccination clinic. More than 300 pups, from poms to pooches, were there on the opening day, however, and here you see the first patient being inoculated. Dr. W. Jackman, left, and his assistant are holding a grotesquely muzzled dog while his young master looks on concernedly.

KILLED SON-IN-LAW

Little Rock, Ark., July 18—(UP)—Judge C. Mason Philpot, 75-year-old lawyer who had been a power in state politics for nearly 50 years, was declared insane today by two physicians who examined him after he had shot and killed his son-in-law, former Congressman Chester W. Taylor.

Judge Philpot shot Taylor at Pine Bluff yesterday as the younger man sought to persuade his estranged wife to return to him. Witnesses said the men conversed amiably on the front porch of the Philpot home but when Taylor insisted on seeing his wife Judge Philpot shot him twice. He died almost immediately. Judge Philpot then attempted to shoot himself, but was prevented by his daughter.

WHEN CORN'S A-TOSSIN' OUT

(By George H. Free) EARS to me that heaven draws near
'Long about this time o' year;
Natur' strings her treasures round
On the bushes, trees and ground.

Some likes Chris'mus, other May—Folks is curious that-a-way—
But the best time, 'thout a doubt,
'S right when corn's a-tossin' out.

'Bout the middle o' July Crops all tended and laid by,
Everwhere the mower's song;
Oats a-turbin' good an' strong;
New potatoes and snap beans,
Apple sass and mustard greens—
Eat until I bust, about,
Right when corn's a-tossin' out.

Lord, how odd some people be!
Light out for the lakes or sea;
Can't stand summer, hain't it queer?
Git hay fever every year.
But fer me o' Iowa
S good enough place fer to stay;
Feel so good I dang near shout,
Right when corn's a-tossin' out.

Queen Helen Goes To London Today

Bucharest, Rumania, July 18—(AP)—Queen Helen, tearfully leaving Crown Prince Michael with King Carol, was en route to London today on what may become a trip to the land of exile.

When she passed the royal castle at Sinala on the Orient Express she peered from the window in vain for a glimpse of the boy who is the only tie between her and her divorced husband. There was not even a royal salute to signify that her long-lasting martial troubles were nearing a climax.

She left last night in tears—tears that were emulated by Dowager Queen Marie, her mother-in-law, and Princess Ileana who went to the station to bid her good-bye. Archduke Anton, Ileana's fiancée, lingered in the background.

She said she would first visit her mother in London and then go to Italy with her brother, former King George of Greece, before returning in a fall to see the Crown Prince. It was rumored she might settle permanently in Switzerland and come to Rumania only at stated intervals.

Paris Favors Black, White For Coolness

By DIANA MERWIN
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
Paris —(AP)—Black and white is the latest lure for summer smartness.

In the midst of a seasonal devoted to startling color combinations smart Parisians are appearing in black and white morning, noon and night and combining them in ways never tried before.

For days in town black coats are worn over white frocks finished with black accessories, while race days find many smart women at the track wearing white coats over simple black frocks accompanied by white accessories.

Jacket suits combine the two shades in surprising fashions. Black skirts are worn with white highlegged jackets lined with black, white wool suits have belts and boutonnieres of black leather, and black frocks and jackets add to their chic with white pique collars, cuffs and belts.

By night the black and white vogue is built of gleaming stuffs. White satin dinner pajamas are finished with short black velvet jackets. Short-sleeved white satin coats worn with matching evening frocks are cuffed in gleaming silver fox or black lynx. Restaurant dinner gowns have black satin skirts and incriminated white satin bodices.

Accessories make or ruin the real smartness of black and white costumes. Black slippers, gauntlets, gloves, hat and bag are generally worn with white frocks while white leather belts, boutonnieres and hats accompany black frocks or tailcoats.

Black accessories are more often chosen for cool informal days in the town, while the white gadgets are used for warm playtime days in the country or formal town affairs.

Anna Case Bride Today Clarence Mackay, Roslyn, L. I.

New York, July 18—(UP)—Clarence H. Mackay, whose fortune was started on the Comstock lode in the gold rush of 1849, and Anna Case, village blacksmith's daughter whose golden voice won her fame with the Metropolitan Opera Company, were married this morning at St. Mary's Catholic church, Roslyn, L. I.

Only members of the immediate family of Mackay, now head of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Company, and the bride, were present. They included Miss Case's mother, Mrs. Peter Van Nuys case of South Branch, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mackay. Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Berlin and John W. Mackay are children of the bridegroom.

Miss Case, who has been a member of the Dutch Reformed church, and once was a choir singer in the Plainfield, N. J., Presbyterian church, was confirmed in the Catholic church a month ago by Patrick Cardinal Hayes, an official announcement said. Mackay is a devout Catholic, a Knight of St. Gregory.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackay left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip, destination unannounced.

Marriage of the two will direct world wide attention to figures whose lives have been full of the romance of business, of fame, music—and love. The two long have been fast friends through their interest in opera. Mackay, at 57, is a patron of the opera; Miss Case, 15 years his junior, is a former leading soprano of the Metropolitan.

Mackay was born in San Francisco son of John William Mackay, an Irish immigrant, who with three others found riches in the Bonanza mine of the Comstock lode which produced $300,000,000 in six years. With James Gordon Bennett, John William Mackay founded the Commercial Cable Company and merged it with Postal. Clarence entered the business when he was 20 years old.

He married Miss Katherine Duer in 1898, and they had three children, John, Katherine and Ellen, who married Irving Berlin, song writer, who graduated to riches from New York's tin pan alley and caused a family quarrel because she, a Catholic, had married Berlin a Jew.

The first Mrs. Mackay obtained a divorce in Paris in 1914 and immediately married Dr. Joseph A. Blake for whom she had left Mackay some time before. She divorced Dr. Blake in 1929 and died a year later after he had remarried.

Anne Case is the daughter of Peter Case, blacksmith at South Branch, N. J. She helped support the family when young by peddling soap, helping neighbors with housework, and driving a horse and buggy for fares.

Anne learned to play the organ and when 15 became organist at Neshanic for $12 weekly, riding to and from the church on horseback. She sang, too.

A neighbor lent her $75, and she studied voice, earned enough to repay the loan, got a paid position in the Presbyterian church at Plainfield, N. J. and sang her way from there into opera.

Andreas Dippel, director of the Metropolitan heard her voice as he passed by on the street one day, enroute to the station after a visit in Plainfield. Dippel had five minutes until train time.

He met the soprano.
"I am Mr. Dippel. How would you like to sing for me?"
"Thank you, but I don't want to join a light opera company. My father wouldn't like it."

"Perhaps you didn't catch my name. I am of Metropolitan Opera. In New York. We have no light opera. I want you for grand opera."

"Oh," the 20-year-old girl exclaimed. "I should be very glad."

She went to New York, and for a tryout, sang an aria from "Carmen." She was introduced to Geraldine Farrar, then began months of study of German, Italian, voice, and stage.

Her debut in Gluck's "Orfeo" was an immediate success, but her father was not among the audience which heard her; he was a deacon in the Dutch Reformed church, and the debut was in a theater.

Later she returned to South Branch, appeared in a church concert during which she father sat in the front pew; next day she sat on a soap box in the blacksmith shop and chatted with him, and that night sang "Annie Rooney" for the neighbors.

She won fame with Metropolitan, of which Mackay was a director, and in addition was a patron of many musical and art organizations.

The marriage of the famous couple will make Miss Case hostess of Harbor Hill, the Long Island country estate given McKay by his father, a home in which the elect of two continents have been entertained, the dinner dance in honor of the Prince of Wales on the latter's trip to America being one of the major social events on this continent in recent years.

RECOGNIZING GREAT MEN.

Trying to name the Americans of today who will be remembered most fondly by their countrymen a century or so later is a fascinating and risky game. Fame plays queer tricks, and greatness is not always recognizable at close range.

H. M. Tomlinson, the famous British author, recently pointed out that America of about 1850 gave to posterity three men who were almost entirely ignored by their contemporaries—Thoreau, Melville and Whitman.

During the decade before the Civil War most Americans had never heard of this trio. The "great men" of that day were politicians and businessmen. California was being developed, railroads were being built, vast fortunes were being made, knotty problems of statesmanship were engaging public attention.

The really important work, to all appearances, was being done by the men who had those jobs in hand. Yet, as Mr. Tomlinson says, when America's great factories have become nests for bats the world will still be grateful for the possession of Thoreau's "Walden," Melville's "Moby Dick" and Whitman's "Leaves of Grass."

All of which, undoubtedly, would pain the good people of 1850 very deeply if they knew about it. For all three of these men were, from the ordinary point of view, loafers. Thoreau went to a cabin by a pond to avoid the cares of the workaday world. Melville went off on a whaling vessel and doubtless disappointed all of his friends. Whitman loafed gloriously and went about town looking very much like a rather crack-brained tramp.

Yet, of all the men of that era, these three are the ones to whom posterity gives the most admiration.

Who are the Americans of today who will be recognized as great a century hence. The great industrialists, politicians and financiers—or some slightly disreputable artists and writers at whom we look with lofty disregard?

A THREE-BILLION-DOLLAR BILL.

When Dr. Michael M. Davis, director of medical services for the Julius Rosenwald Fund, told the National Conference of Social Work in Minneapolis that the people of the United States spend $3,000,000,000 a year on medical services he shed a new light on the cost of medical care.

Most illuminating was his assertion that fully $750,000,000 of this sum is wasted on "worthless medicines and a 35 to 50 per cent overhead in private medical and dental practice."

The latter item is something for the medical profession itself to settle, and a good approach has been made in many cases by the organization of clinics. The first item is strictly up to the general public. Only a wider knowledge of the truths of modern medical science will lead to a reduction. The patent medicine vendor and the quack thrive on ignorance, now as always.

MUSSOLINI FOR DISARMAMENT.

Mussolini's declaration that Italy will support "whatever program for disarmament the United States may advance," is highly gratifying. During the last few years it is only fair to say that Italy has not always been disposed to give disarmament schemes a helping hand. If Il Duce is ready to start on a new tack the whole world will rejoice.

Meanwhile, it would not hurt anything if the promises of the Versailles treaty were recalled again. That treaty, imposing disarmament on Germany, pledged the allied nations to reduce their own armaments. To date they have not done so. To work for a disarmament program at the 1932 conference is only to work for a fulfillment of the solemn pledges in the Versailles treaty.

Men fall in love only before 30 and after 50. — Vicomte Alain de Leche.

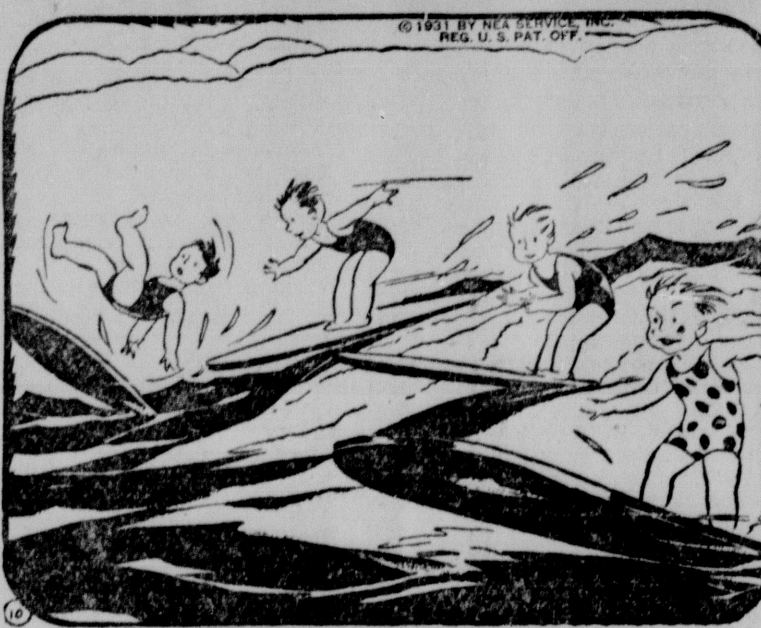

Henpecking is the constant business of women. A woman takes a peck at every man she meets, for the general good of her sex.—Ed. Howe.

The snag of our generation is to be found in the possibility of being endlessly amused by things that tickle the surface of the mind but contribute nothing to the wealth of life.—Archbishop of York.

The present period of depression will be studied by economists of the future as an example of what a wisely directed government can do to alleviate economic distress.—Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur.

The American public should realize that Germany's financial relief can be no greater than America's sacrifice.—Professor F. R. Fairchild.

The horse that pulled the buggy had dropped. "Gee! Are you hurt?" cried Scouty, as he leaped out to the ground. The lad looked up, still brave and bold and said, "Oh, not I lost my hold." And then he jumped up to his feet and he was safe and sound.

The Travel Man then joined the bunch. Said he, "I have a happy bunch that this lad needs a fine reward for rescuing you boys." He gave the boy a bill or two and said, "I'm sure we all thank you!" The Tinymites broke in a cheer and made a leap of noise.

The Travel Man then said, "Let's skip. We're going to board a great big ship and sail for Honolulu. I will promise, when we reach that port, you'll have a lot of fun." They sailed before the day was done and reached the town and soon the bunch were playing on a beach.

SHIPPING LOSS STATEMENT

On July 18, 1917, a dispatch from a press correspondent in London announced that the "loss of ships by submarines totaled 1,600,000 tons a month, or from two to three times the total of new construction."

Though the submarine situation, as evidenced by the above announcement, was growing more and more serious, Admiral Lucase, French minister of marine, felt more optimistically about it. He said:

"It is true we are suffering considerable losses, but every month increases our certainty of being able to repair them. Furthermore, we are in a position to stand these losses as a large part in a new construction will be taken by the United States."

"The shipbuilding, already under way, the effect of which will naturally only be felt after a certain time, is great enough to replace the highest average of destruction the submarines are likely to reach."

"The curve representing the tonnage sunk does not mount steadily, but rises and falls. We know, too, that the Germans find great difficulty in obtaining trained crews for submarines."

That cities that are known as progressive cities attract the attention of investors and home-seekers. Cities that are alive and know it never lose any time in telling others of the waiting world may know it.

They tell of the glories of their city and of the many money-making opportunities to be found there.

They do not boast, but deal out cold facts.

Every city that is progressive and keeps telling the world about it has a glowing future.

Modern cities are facing wonderful opportunities, bigger than most of them realize. Now is the time for them to look ahead and plan to quicken that additional prosperity that is so desired by all.

Cities that realize the importance of building better business and making and putting better business plans into effect are the ones who will profit most.

Cities that have been alive to their opportunities have for years been drawing to themselves new industries, home-seekers, and investors in large numbers.

SEX EDUCATION—I

If it is not to be the stork or the doctor's satchel, then the answer to the child's questions should be based on good teaching and sound facts.

The emotional state of the parent is easily transmitted to the child.

And so a parent who faces children's questions about sex with embarrassment will soon have the children feeling the same way about it. They will then turn to other and less trustworthy sources.

A question cannot be answered effectively unless properly understood. Adults seldom understand children's questions. They understand the words but not the scope or intent of the question. At one and the same time they see in the child's inquiry too much and too little.

Where did the world come from, or the sun, or the stars are questions that do not call for a reply containing an exposition of the theories of creation.

Nor does the query as to where the baby comes from demand a detailed exposition of conception and pregnancy.

As a general rule the child's question should be taken at its significance, and answered accordingly. Often the question merely represents the child's effort to understand simple (and, at the same time, profound) relations.

Answers which are too involved more often confuse than help the child.

A tendency noted in such education is the endeavor to hide one's embarrassment by answering children's question with illustration taken from flowers; birds, rabbits and the like.

These tactics are worthless. It takes an adult intelligence and an understanding of the relation of the sex organs of the flower to the simple question "Where did baby come from?"

FRANKLIN GROVE NEWS NOTES

Franklin Grove, July 16—Fred J. Krehl was called to Aurora Sunday by the critical illness of his mother, Mrs. Minnie Krehl. Friends are hoping with the family that she may recover.

Mrs. Ed Hain and sister, Miss Mae Howard spent Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley near Eldena.

Mrs. Sadie Blaine had a birthday Monday and that it might be one long to be remembered her daughter, Mrs. Jay Miller prepared a lovely chicken dinner and took it, together with her husband and two children to the George Mong home where her mother resides, and all enjoyed a birthday dinner. Mrs. Blaine's friends are extending congratulations and wishing her many more birthday anniversaries.

Mrs. Harry Jackson and two sons spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Wheaton.

States Attorney M. V. Peterman of Oregon was here Monday afternoon calling on the neighbors of his boyhood days. Junior is another Franklin Grove boy who has made good in his chosen work and his old neighbors are always glad to greet him.

Mr. and Mrs. Claire Pfoutz moved recently into the Elmer Cline property near Mrs. Susan Barkman.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bates and son Dean, of Freeport, were Saturday and Sunday visitors with relatives in this community.

Mrs. Jesse Johnson of Morrison visited Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hatch June and Johnny Hatch who had been visiting in Morrison returned to their home Saturday.

Misses Beryl and Dorothy Long of Peoria were guests from Saturday until Monday at the home of their aunt, Mrs. LaForrest Meredith.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pierce of Rockford spent the week-end with relatives in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Danekas have rented the residence of the late Mrs. Laura Spratt, and will move there in the near future.

Mrs. Belle Fish of Kalamazoo, Michigan, is visiting at the home of her friend, Miss Stegemeyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Banker and daughters of Elgin were Sunday visitors at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Banker.

Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Warner and son Bobbie of Tusculum, Tennessee, arrived Tuesday evening in Ashton, to make a two weeks visit at the home of her father, Rev. Charles Wilson.

Prof. Warner has been teaching in the Tusculum University for the past three years. Rev. Wilson is pastor of the local Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stultz and son Dallas of this place, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stultz and family of Rockford were Sunday guests at the Taylor Stultz home north of town.

Mrs. Frank Vaughan, Mrs. P. M. James, Mrs. Louise Mellon and Miss Hattie Vaughan of Amboy were callers Sunday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Banker.

Junior Weigle, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Weigle, endured a tonsillar operation recently and is getting along just fine. Junior is employed in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mrs. C. E. Yeomum and three daughters, of this place, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Kearns of Oregon were in Sterling Sunday visiting at the home of Mrs. F. M. Barry, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kearns.

The barn on the farm of R. W. Smith at the edge of town, was completely consumed by fire which started in the hay-mow about five o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Despite all efforts of the fire department and other help from every direction the building was soon reduced to a heap of smoldering embers. The contents of the barn were all consumed—twenty-five loads of hay, a hayrack and all harness. The barn and the hay were insured. Spontaneous combustion due to excessive heat, in all probability caused the fire.

Misses Wilma and Arlene Butterbaugh, who have been residing with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wolf left Sunday for Roanoke, Virginia, where they will make their future home. Dr. and Mrs. Roy Hoover, who have opened the doors of their home to the girls were guest at the Wolf home from Friday until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bates were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George Knouse. In the afternoon they enjoyed a visit to the Pines.

Miss Elizabeth Durkes entertained with bridge Friday afternoon. Twelve guests were present to enjoy the event. Out-of-town guests were, Mrs. Cecil Cravens of Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. Paul Meyers of Aurora, Mrs. Weaver of Hollywood, Calif., Mrs. Arnold-MacCaffey and Mrs. Wilbur Winn of Dixon. First honors at bridge were won by Mrs. Weaver, while the consolation token was given to Mrs. Wynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bates are visiting friends in Rockford this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cravens, who have been visiting with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Fives, left Sunday for their home in Toledo, Ohio. They were accompanied by Mrs. Wynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bates were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George Knouse. In the afternoon they enjoyed a visit to the Pines.

Mrs. Ida Frantz, who has been failing in health for a number of years, but recently her condition grew worse, was taken to the Dixon hospital Saturday for treatment, which her relatives and friends trust will be beneficial.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vogt, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, motored to Lake Delevan and Geneva in Wisconsin, Sunday. They report a lovely trip.

Mrs. Jennie Hamilton of Panama, Iowa, died Sunday evening at her home. She was an aunt of Lee Fisel and a sister of the late Mrs. C. M. Suter. She has visited in this community and was well known.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lincoln entertained the following guests Friday with a lovely chicken dinner. Those present were: Mesdames Flora Timmity, A. Jones, Mary Maiden, Ella Miller, Charles Bill, Misses Adella and Alice Helmerhausen.

The Kings Heralds enjoyed a meeting Thursday afternoon with Miss Ethel Sheap at her beautiful country home. After the usual meeting the young ladies spent the rest of the afternoon in an enjoyable manner, during which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Adam Cliffe and two daughters of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sitts and son William, of West Chicago, were guests Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lincoln.

Company Buys Wire
The Farmers Telephone Company has placed an order for four tons of copper wire with which to replace their toll lines in the country. The acknowledgement was received by Treasurer C. W. Bowers.

The four tons of copper wire will string a telephone line 67 miles long. The company, however, will take two wires. The old toll lines will be taken down as rapidly as possible and the copper wire replaced.

The company made a big saving in the copper wire over the prices of a few years ago. The price was about 60 per cent of former quotations.

4-H Club Notes
Miss Ruth Cupp entertained the club Thursday. The roll call was answered in the name of each girl's favorite poet and his writings. After the business meeting, Miss Bernice Cluts demonstrated cutting and sewing a bias binding. Work on the garments was continued after which Miss Cupp served dainty refreshments. Today the club meets with Miss Bernice Cluts.

Rev. Charles Wilson, minister

Cyrus M. Suter was born in China township, Lee county, Ill., September 4, 1852 and died at the Dixon public hospital in the early morning of July 13, 1931.

His parents were Daniel and Caroline Suter, natives of Pa. and emigrated from Myersdale, Pa. to Lee county, Illinois and presented letters of church membership to the Church of the Brethren at this place in 1852. The parents moved in the spring of 1853 to near the present site of Ashton, Illinois and are said to have been the third or fourth family to settle in Ashton township.

In June, 1869, our deceased brother

er was received on confession of faith and baptism, into church fellowship by the Church of the Brethren.

On the 6th day of April, 1873, he and Miss Sarah E. Fisel, of Nachusa, Ill., were united in marriage. In August, 1880, they moved to Franklin county, Iowa, and in the spring of 1886 they moved to Grundy county, Iowa.

While living in Grundy county, the church called him to the office of deacon in June, 1887. In the following spring in March, 1888 they again took up their residence near Ashton, Illinois.

The following year in October, 1889, the church congregation at Franklin Grove, Illinois licensed him to preach the gospel and in 1892, his life and service to the church having been commendable, the church body elected him to a fuller ministry and service; sometimes designated as the second degree in the ministry.

This fuller ministry and larger responsibility in the work of the church, was soon manifest by a growing activity in his part in matters that pertain to the spiritual work of the church. He was elected by this church congregation to the office of Elder and so ordained October, 1897, family moved to Franklin Grove, Ill., and came to be much appreciated by the community as citizen, friend and neighbor.

On March 10, 1898, he was called by the church congregation to take the oversight of the church at this place. His predecessor, Elder Daniel Dierdorff, having previously urged that he be relieved of the care of the church, because of his age.

In this last named capacity, our deceased brother served until December, 1914, almost 17 years, when he too requested to be relieved of the care of the church congregation.

From a diary, that he kept, we glean that he baptized one hundred fifty-six applicants. He appointed as calls were received from those sick according to James 5:14 fifty-nine men desiring the blessings promised accers. He married 35 couples and officiated at 75 funerals.

To him is due the credit for procuring and recording the history of the early church activities of the congregation and the names of the communicants together with the date when he received by baptism, which record begins with the organization of the congregation with thirteen charter members, in 1845. To accomplish that required, on his part, much perseverance, time, labor and correspondence. Much of the data then gathered would, by this time, be lost.

In addition to his church activities during a large part of the time since 1848, he worked at the carpentering trade, building and helping to build many houses and other buildings.

His family consisted of his wife and two fine sons and one daughter.

He was preceded in death, first by his daughter Mrs. Mildred Sanders, on January 9, 1925. That sad experience was destined to be soon followed by more sorrow and loneliness, for only eleven days later, January 20th, the wife and mother was called by death from the family and community.

Soon after the death of his wife,

Miss Ruth Zoeller, youngest daughter of Louis Zoeller, was united in marriage Monday afternoon at 1:30 p. m., to Capt. B. Raymond Smith, of Davenport, Iowa. The ceremony was performed by Wm. Sell, justice of peace and brother of the groom, at Sycamore, Ill. The bride was attired in a creation of pink chiffon and carried bride's roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony the wedding dinner was enjoyed at the Innovation in DeKalb. Capt. Smith, who is a transport pilot, carrying mail from Chicago to Kapsas City, then left for his work. The bride is residing in Franklin Grove for the present. Their friends are extending congratulations.

Leadership Training School
The leadership training camp school will convene July 20 to July 26 on the local camp grounds.

This school will seek to increase the efficiency of those who are doing on planning to do definite work in the religious education in the local church of the Joliet-Dixon district. The school offers course of study which are Christian in spirit, scientific in method and practical for life. The courses given are regular parts of the International Council curriculum leading toward the diplomas, given on completion of twelve courses. Each student may take two courses.

Secure a folder from Rev. or Mrs. Warren Hutchinson on the camp grounds, if you are interested and join the classes.

GIRL TO PIT HER FRAIL STRENGTH AGAINST ATLANTIC

Laura Ingalls, Weight Less Than 100, To Attempt Solo

By W. W. CHAPLIN
New York, July 18—(AP)—Aviators at this jumping off place for Atlantic flights look on diminutive Laura Ingalls as a feminine David who has selected as her Goliath the jinx which has presided over practically every ocean flight in which women have taken part.
Of the ten women who have actually started on such adventures five have perished; one was injured in a crash, another was rescued only after being flung into the sea, two turned back, and only one reached the other side although not in the country she had intended. Others planned ocean flights but for one reason or another never reached the point of takeoff.
Yet Laura Ingalls, one of the smallest and apparently the frailest of them all, has set her eyes across the sea and has determined to do alone what so many of her sister fliers could not do with the help of men.
The first woman to try an ocean flight was Miss Mildred Doran who set out with two men on August 16, 1927 on an air race from the west coast to Hawaii. She and her companions were lost at sea as were two other men in another entry in the race and still two more in a plane which tried to rescue them.
First Atlantic Attempt
Two weeks later the first Atlantic flight participated in by a woman began. With two men the Princess Ludwig Lowenstein-Wertheim (Lady Anne Saville) took off in England for Canada. They were never heard from.
In October of that year Lilli Dillenz, Austrian actress, started out in a Junkers plane from Germany and on to the Azores but there after many delays the flight was abandoned and she returned by boat.
While she was waiting at the Azores Ruth Elder hopped off in America with George W. Haldeman to fly the southern route to France.
They made a forced landing off the Azores and were rescued by a steamer.
The only other woman to try an ocean flight in 1927 was Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, who took off for Hawaii two days before Christmas with three men. All were lost.
In March of the next year the Hon. Elsie Mackay took off in England with Captain Walter Hinchliffe.
Neither was ever seen again.
Miss Earhart First
In June 1928 Amelia Earhart and Mabel Boll, known as the Queen of Diamonds because of her many jewels, both planned Atlantic flights, but Miss Earhart got away first and Miss Boll abandoned her flight. Miss Earhart is the only woman who has ever flown across the ocean in an airplane. She hoped to reach Paris but landed in Wales.
All the flights in which women participated were actually made by men, the women merely going along as passengers, but after the Earhart flight the idea began to grow of having a woman actually pilot a plane across the Atlantic. Thea Rasche of Germany, announced such a flight, and Elinor Smith of Long Island revealed that she also hoped to do it, but nothing came of these plans.
And so for one reason and another women dropped out of ocean flying from the summer of 1928 until the first part of the present year. Then it began again and the beginning was another tragedy. Mrs. Beryl Hart, a red haired widow from New Jersey, took off on the southern course with William MacLaren. They were seen no more.
It was after this that the idea of a woman's solo flight began to gain ground and two aspirants presented themselves. Ruth Nichols and Laura Ingalls. Miss Nichols got away first, taking off from New York on June 22. She crashed at St. John, N. B., cracking two vertebrae in her spine.
Then out of the west came Laura Ingalls, less than 100 pounds of her prepared to pit her resources against the jinx that has thrown its grim shadow over ocean flights by women.

Here is the hospital building at the New Mexico state penitentiary, where ex-Secretary Albert B. Fall is scheduled to serve his prison term for wholesale grafting on government oil lands while he was a member of President Harding's cabinet. Though he was sentenced at Washington, D. C., government officials permitted him to choose a prison in the southwest in view of his claim of feeble health. Fall was convicted specifically of accepting a $100,000 bribe from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate. Singularly enough a jury acquitted Doheny of giving the bribe.

Former Priest Is Given His Liberty

Comstock, N. Y., July 18—(UP)— Having won several months off his sentence for good behavior, Charles Flaherty, 70, who was unfrocked as a Roman priest 30 years ago, was released from Great Meadow prison, Friday. The former priest was sentenced from Onondaga county to five to ten years in 1927 on a charge of manslaughter in connection with an illegal operation.

Flaherty said he would return to his home at Mount Morris, Livingston county, and live with his brother.

Self-taught in medicine and law, Flaherty attracted wide attention by acting as his own lawyer at his big trial and by appearing personally before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court on several occasions to argue for a reversal of his conviction.

U. S. MAY SEEK MORE TRUTH
IN ADVERTISING

New Government Bureau
Suggested To Answer
Consumers' Queries

Washington—(UP)—Creation of a new division of the government is being suggested as a means of protecting the public from advertising which contains more imagination than truth.

At present there is no uniform regulation of the great volume of sales talks that pour out over the air in radio broadcasts, or compete for attention from billboards, magazines and newspapers.

The food and drug administration can keep a manufacturer from claiming too much for his product or, the label, but has no jurisdiction over advertising. Occasionally the Federal Trade Commission calls a halt to some particularly flagrant distortion of facts. But for the most part a copy writer can go about as far as he pleases in his boasts to the public.

Several efforts have been made to give the food and drug administration power to make advertising conform to the same regulations that apply to labels. W. G. Campbell, chief of the administration, believes something eventually will have to be done about it. But he does not approve any "paternalistic" methods or anything bordering on censorship.

"The final responsibility," Campbell said, "should rest with the consumer. We are trying to educate the public to read the labels. They are the consumer's safeguard and as much as we can do at present."

"There is no doubt that in this day of high-powered advertising the ad sells the product. Eventually something will have to be done about it. I am not in favor of setting up a censorship, or depriving the consumer of his right to exercise his own judgment by investigations and comparisons.

A solution would be the creation of a new bureau in the Department of Agriculture organized to answer all questions about the claims made by advertisers and to give the exact factual or food value of any product in dispute."

Campbell said that many publishers who desire to keep the standard of their advertisements at the highest now consult with the department. The department is not organized, however, to handle any great amount of this work, he said.

BOUND TO BE READ

By H. ALLEN SMITH
United Press Book Editor

The most colorful street in the United States and the one with the most remarkable background. Not even excluding Broadway and Coney Island, the Bowery is the most striking of the city's streets. It is the footpath for Indians to its present state of degradation has just been put between covers for the first time by Alvin F. Harlow in "Old Bowery Days" (Appleton).

The street today lies beneath a canopy of elevated tracks. It is lined with reeking flophouses and stale
"smoke" joints, where heavy-eyed, incorrigible bums stagger from bed to bar and back to bed again. But the Bowery has had a noble history and Harlow has set it down intriguingly. His book is made of the same stuff as Herbert Asbury's "The Gangs of New York."

The Bowery has been a lane of elegant country houses. It has been a military highway upon which the armies of the Revolution marched and counter-marched. It has been a street of sport, where the first horse races were run on the straightaway. It was the nation's first theatrical boulevard, the cradle of the gangs, the cauldron of a steaming political life, and the home of the breadline, the hobo mission and the flophouse.

Harlow has done a thorough job.
His research has been tremendous and every word in his book smacks of authenticity. The story is dramatic, informative, packed with anecdote. It is one of the most fascinating books published this year.

The Limited Editions Club has just announced its third series of 12 books, to be sent out to subscribers at an approximate cost of $10 a volume.
The prospectus, listing and describing the new books, should reach the hands of every lover of beautifully bound, printed and illustrated volumes. Here are some of the titles:

"The Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin," designed and printed in Cloister type by John Henry Nash, of San Francisco; "Alice in Wonderland," with the original illustrations by Sir John Tenniel; "South Wind," by Norman Douglas, illustrated by Carlotta Petrina, designed by Elmer Adler and with an introduction by Carl Van Doren (what a book!); "Faust," by Goethe, in a new version translated by Alice Raphael, illustrated in water colors; Balzac's Droll Stories, in a new and complete translation by Jacques Le Clercq;
"The Last of the Mohicans," by James Fenimore Cooper, illustrated by Edward A. Wilson; "The Cloister and the Hearth," by Charles Reade, illustrated by Lynd Ward, with an introduction by Hendrik Willem Van Loon; "Tom Jones," by Fielding, illustrated by Alexander King, with an introduction by J. B. Priestley;

"Kvadan," by the Japanese artist Fujita and printed in Tokio and
"The Analects of Confucius," printed in Shanghai.

The Limited Editions Club deserves to be complimented on this list. Each book is limited to 1,500 volumes, numbered. Most of them are signed by the artists and designers.

"Personals," a novel by Eleanor DeLamater (Farrar & Rinehart) is an interesting experiment in fiction.
The editors of a small town newspaper looking over the dry-sounding list of personal items, remark that news is pretty scarce, that the items are dead and uninteresting. Each of these items serves as a chapter heading and each chapter tells the story behind the two or three lines of gos-sipy news. The point is, of course, that such local items frequently contain the essence of drama.

One of the most enjoyable books
I have picked up in weeks is "The Oregon Trail," by Francis Parkman, an American classic that has been reissued in handsome format by Farrar & Rinehart.

Parkman left college in the 1840's and went into the wild west, and the book he wrote upon returning will no doubt always stand as the most thrilling, yet factual, of all the stories of the Indian and buffalo country.

This new edition has an introduction by Mark Van Doren and the printers have done a fine job. Boys who relish tales of adventure and who find them in questionable fiction should be given this book, for it is more exciting reading than they are likely to find elsewhere.

"Speed" is the name of a new book by Capt. Frank Hawks, published by Frewer, Warren & Putnam. Everybody in America and Europe knows Frank Hawks by now. He is unquestionably the fastest fellow we have, and he is fast consistently. In this book he recounts the story of his youth (he's a native of Iowa), his transcontinental flights, his great glider journey from ocean to ocean, his speed sprints and his tour of the southwest with Will Rogers.

The book ends with his departure for Europe where, as we all know, he has been cutting all kinds of rapid capers. Aviation enthusiasts will get a kick out of "Speed."

"The Background of International Relations," by Charles Hodges.

It is offered "as a challenge to the reader to face international realities in the scientific spirit and to stimulate inquiry into what lies behind the headlines."

The author, associate professor of politics at New York university, has a wide background of international experience and he has attempted to bring together "a general statement of the fundamental facts of the relations of nations."

An exhaustive study has been made of the shifty aspects of these problems and the author attempts—interestingly and successfully—to weave them into a completed pattern.

DISPASSIONATE ON INDIA—
India comes into the publishing picture again—this time in a novel, "A Farewell to India," by Edward Thomson.

Controversy undoubtedly will follow in its wake, for in a country of such passionate and conflicting beliefs it is not understandable that one clique or another will not read into Mr. Thompson's book things which he seems to present in a dispassionate and disinterested manner.

"A Farewell to India," is the story of one Robert Alden, for 20 years educational missionary in a Provincial Indian College.

Alden's career is coming to an end partly because of ill health and partly because of the realization that the India in which his role was cast is passing. He views the years without rancor, apparently without indignation, and in pursuing his even somewhat humorous way he achieves a credibility many others have sought but which has eluded them.

Washington News

By Chas. F. Scott

Washington, D. C.—The President of the United States does not voice idle rumor nor make haphazard statements. When he declares, therefore, as he did the other day, that "certain persons are selling short in our commodity markets, particularly in wheat," it may be taken for granted that he speaks for the card. The President was careful to say that he did not refer to the ordinary hedging transactions which are a sound part of our marketing system, nor to legitimate grain trade.
He did refer to a limited number of speculators whose one purpose seems to be to depress prices, and he denounced them in severest terms for their efforts to destroy returning public confidence to take a profit from the losses of other people. It was a timely and deserved rebuke, and manifests the deep concern the President has over the continued low price of wheat and his determination that nothing he can do to start it on an upgrade shall be omitted.

In this connection many keen observers of the markets have not failed to note that on many occasions within the past two years when an upturn in the prices of securities on the stock exchanges became manifest

Baseball Gossip

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

No one has accused either the Boston Braves or the Cincinnati Reds of having designs of this year's National League pennant, but those two clubs have just completed what likely will stand as the most remarkable series played in either major league this season.

For pitching brilliance over a period of days, there has been nothing so far to compare with the performances given by their respective mound stars the last four days. The total runs scored by both teams in the four contests was only 13, eight for the Reds and five for the Braves. Shutouts were registered on three of the four afternoons, John Ogden and Red Lucas turning the feat for the Reds and Bruce Cunningham for the Braves.

Cincinnati's two victories were won by scores of 1 to 0 and 5 to 0. Boston captured its pair, 3 to 2 and 2 to 0. Lefty Brandt of the Braves allowed only four hits in losing the second game of the series to old John Ogden.

In climaxing the torrid series yesterday, Lucas limited the Braves to five hits, two of them by Rabbit Maranville, while he and his mates jumped on Frankhouse and Moss for 10 to run up the highest score of the series. Lucas, himself, contributed a double and a single to the attack.

While on the subject of pitching, Jumbo Elliott of the Phillies comes in for a share of the plaudits. His team could win only two out of five engagements from the Pittsburgh Pirates, and he pitched both of them.

After beating the Pirates, 1 to 0, on Monday, he came back to do it again yesterday, 4 to 1, for his thirteenth victory of the year. He yielded only four hits and did not walk a batter.

A pair of Brooklyn ancients, Adolfo Luque and John Quinn, held the St. Louis Cardinals to nine scattered blows as the Robins squared the four-game series, 4 to 1.

Batting, rather than pitching, featured the fourth game in the senior circuit, the Giants clouting three Chicago curvers for 15 hits to close the series with a 7 to 6 victory and squeeze back into second place in the standing. Ethan Allen, a pinch hitter drove across the winning runs with a double after two were out in the seventh.

Lefty Grove chalked up his nineteenth victory of the year and his tenth in a row as the champion Athletics made it four out of five from Detroit, 6 to 3.

Wes Ferrell of the Indians scored almost a single-handed victory over the Yankees, 2 to 1. He granted only three hits, one of which was Babe Ruth's twenty-third home run of the year, and won his own game with a blow into the left field bleachers in the seventh.

Every member of the Washington club connected at least once as the Senators bade the Chicago White Sox farewell.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Adolfo Luque and Jack Quinn, Robins—Held Cardinals to eight scattered hits to win, 4-1.

Ethan Allen, Giants—His pinch debut in seventh drove in tying and winning runs against Cubs.

Jim Elliott, Phillies—Won 13th game of season, beating Pirates, 4-1, on four hits.

Max West and Joe Kuhel, Senators—Split eight hits between them in defeat of White Sox.

Bob Grove, Athletics—Beat Tigers, 6-3, for 19th victory of season.

Wes Ferrell, Indians—Held Yankees to three hits and clouted homer that won for Indians, 2-1.

Red Lucas, Reds—Blanked Braves with five hits.

SPORT SLANTS

The story has been told of M. Jacques Curley, the promoter rappingly impatient upon the ring-side to bring an abrupt finish to a grappling match so that the ponderous pachyderms could catch their train to the next place of wrestling entertainment.

M. Jacques says the story is exaggerated, but at any rate he has been used to having the heavy-and-go boys do their work with an eye to the fat receipts as well as the practical advantages of the situation in hand.

Perhaps Curley has not been much surprised by the failure of his tennis enterprise, featuring Big Bill Tilden to accept any such code of business. M. Jacques has promoted enterprises involving sufficient varieties of human nature to take the things as they come and make the best of it.

Nevertheless, he must have been pained by the way Tilden disposed of the two professional rivals capable of making matters interesting—Karel Kozeluh and Vincent Richard. As an amateur, Tilden combated charges of professionalism or at least of commercialism. As a professional he has manifested an amateur spirit of competitiveness hardly calculated to prolong or stimulate the interest of the cash customers.

Tilden's tour no doubt has drawn well enough to net a tidy return, but Big Bill has done no "sloughing" designated to help the "build-up" from town to town.

KOZELUH SHOULD KNOW— Kozeluh, who now has the dubious distinction of having been beaten more times by Tilden than any other player, amateur or pro, finds nothing mystifying in Big Bill's sweep of the series with Vincent Richards, whose youth has never enabled him to catch up with the tall Philadelphia.

Aside from the fact that Vinnie played Bill improperly, from the standpoint of tactics, Kozeluh in a tennis magazine notes: "The second reason for Vinnie's defeat lies not with Vinnie but with Big Bill himself. I maintain, in all honesty and sincerity, that Tilden, as I have known him in several matches of our tour, is unbeatable. No player today in the world, Cochet not excepted, will beat Big Bill as I have known him."

"The pace, the spin, power, deception, speed, steadiness, accuracy, strategy of Big Bill's tennis game are superb. Without a doubt Tilden today is himself the composite player he so often writes about. He combines the best qualities of the leading players of the world. And he has sportsmanship to the nth degree."

LOSS TO CUP TEAM— Tilden, if he had waited another year before turning pro, might have attained his goal of helping to bring back the Davis Cup from France.

Big Bill had done his mightiest, under some harassing circumstances for three years to turn this trick. He felt it was time to let the younger fellows like Shields and Wood over the job.

Perhaps he was right, for the new generation will reach the top only through front-line fighting, but the big tennis show isn't quite the same without him.

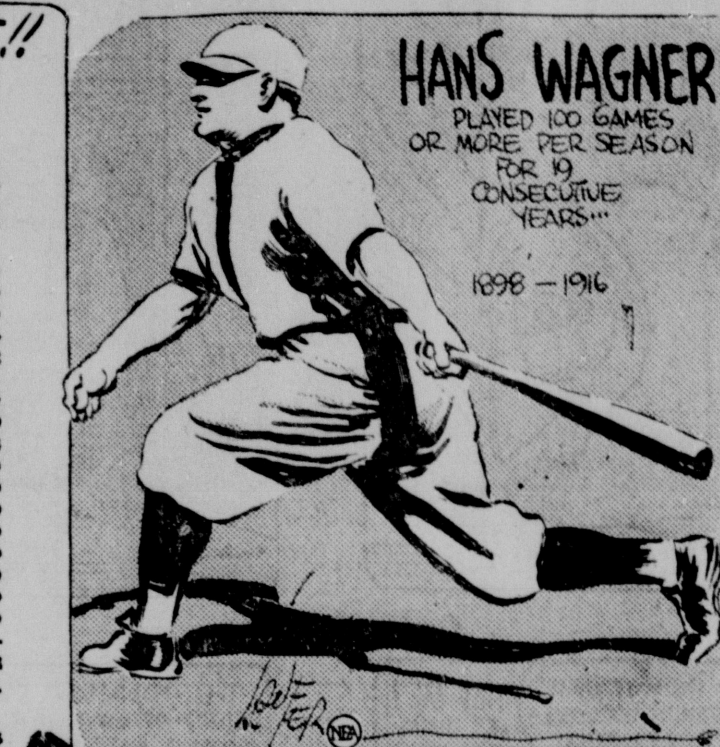

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, July 18—(UP)—When and if the good people of Egypt decide they need a new and less talkative sphinx we would like to suggest Lefty Grove of the Athletics for the job. Of course, Mister Grove might, in the dead of night when no tourists were around, slip off and bounce a few fast ones off the pyramids just to keep his arm in trim, but we'd be willing to back his ability to uphold the traditional silence.

For Lefty, who won his 19th game of the season yesterday and who is generally regarded as the finest pitcher in baseball, is perfectly willing to let his strong left arm do all the talking. Trying to interview the big man is little more satisfactory than talking to the Grand Canyon, for most of the time you don't even get an echo. He just sits, looks at you, puffs his cigar, and sits, does this six-foot two, raw-boned mountaineer from Lonaconing, Maryland.

The man has his moments, however, and during these moments gets so garrulous as to answer questions with "yet" or "no". Using this elementary method of the interview we learned from Lefty that reports to the contrary, he is not aiming for 30 victories this season but will be eminently satisfied with any number he happens to hang up; that he does not consider himself overworked, but that the writer who said he asked to be allowed to pitch every day was "just trying to fill up the space"; that he rates Mickey Cochrane, his battery mate, as the finest of all catchers, but that a good pitcher is a good pitcher whether he is throwing the ball to a Cochrane or into a feather mattress; that he doesn't fear a Ruth or a Gehrig or a Morgan any more than he does a player who wires home every time he manages to get a hit.

The country winning the doubles match at Auteuil today is likely to meet France in the challenge round for the Davis Cup. Yesterday's results would indicate that England

National Tank Meet To Close This Eve

New York, July 18—(UP)—The 1931 National A. A. U. swimming and diving championships for women, which already have produced three new world's records, come to a close tonight. The final events to be contested are the 800 yard free-style, in which Miss Helene Madison of Seattle Wash., will defend her title, and the 220-yard breast stroke.

Two world marks were shattered last night. Miss Madison was successful in her attempt to better the record for the 1,000 meter free style when she covered the distance in 13:28.8. The old mark was 14:39.4, set by Miss Martha Norelius of New York in 1927. The Seattle speedster's new record was made in an exhibition affair.

Miss Katherine Rawls, 14-year-old Hollywood, Fla., girl, broke the other mark in the 330-yard medley relay when she defeated Miss Eleanor Holm of New York, the defending champion. Miss Rawls negotiated the event in 4:45.8, to better by four seconds the world's record set in 1929 by Miss Holm.

In the other championship event on the third night's program, the Los Angeles A. C. 881-yard relay team successfully defended its title. The quartet was composed of the Misses Norene Forbes, Jennie Cramer, Marjorie Lowe and Josephine McKim.

REVERSE BALLY-HOO FOR SHARKEY-WALKER CONTEST

Press Agents Working To Try To Show Boston Man Is In Slump

By DIXON STEWART

United Press Staff Correspondent

Pompton Lakes, N. J., July 18—(UP)—For the benefit of the credulous it should be recorded that reports emanating from Jack Sharkey's training camp during the past week have been utterly false and were nothing more or less than "ballyhoo" for Sharkey's bout against Mickey Walker at Brooklyn next Wednesday.

Instead of being "hog fat, disinterested in his ring future, and as effective against his sparring partners as an armless man against a swarm of angry bees," as reported by Promoter Jimmy Johnson's press agents, Sharkey, in reality is in well nigh perfect condition, and in the word of veteran fight writers who have followed Sharkey's career from the start, he showed as well in yesterday's boxing against four sparring partners as he ever did in his life.

To the uninitiated it might appear that attempts to discredit Sharkey are poor advertising, but boxing followers recognize these tactics as the good old "reverse ballyhoo" inaugurated by Tex Rickard for the Dempsey-Carpenter and Tunney-Heeney bouts.

The "reverse ballyhoo," necessary in matches where one of the contestants obviously is outclassed, calls for a strong "build up" for the outclassed fighter and a "pull down" for the better man. In this instance Sharkey outclasses Walker by such a wide margin that an intensive "build down" was necessary for the Bostonian.

Rated strictly off the records, Walker would be no better than a 20 to 1 shot against Sharkey. The Bostonian may not be the best heavyweight in the world, but he certainly figures to whip Walker.

Sharkey will have a 35-pound pull in the weights, with Walker unlikely to scale more than 165 pounds; he is by far the better boxer; he is faster than Walker and unquestionably a harder hitter. If Mickey has a single advantage it is his sturdy fighting heart. Sharkey's courage has been questioned.

Sharkey, however, is at his best against a man he is confident he can whip and he is positive that he can beat Walker.

"Walker's nothing more than a set-up for me," Sharkey told the United Press. "I'm really ashamed to fight such a little fellow, but they insisted on getting the match so I'll have to knock him out. Then I'll go on to beat Loughran, Carnera or any other contender and then Max Schmeling will have to meet me or admit that he knows I'm his master."

Yankee Davis Cup Players Take Lead

Roland Garros Stadium, Auteuil, France, July 18—(UP)—America's chances for victory in the Davis Cup inter-zone finals soared today when George Lott and John Van Ryn teamed to defeat George Patrick Hughes and Frederick J. Perry of Great Britain.

The victory gave the United States a 2 to 1 advantage in the match score as Frank Shields defeated Perry in a singles match yesterday, while Sidney Wood of New York was losing to H. W. Bunny, Austin.

The winner, who will challenge France for the famous cup, will be decided in the two singles matches tomorrow.

Do You Remember

One Year Ago Today—The baseball park was filled with Mark Koenig as the Tigers won from the Red Sox 7 to 6. Koenig hit a home run with two bats aboard, slashed two singles, and started a triple play, Koenig to Gehrig to Alexander.

Five Years Ago Today—A golf record was believed established at Salisbury Country Club, Garden City, Long Island, when after trying at the end of the regular 72 holes of play in the Metropolitan Open, Mac Smith and Gene Sarazen battled 36 extra holes of a playoff without breaking the deadlock. Each averaged 71 1-3 strokes per 18-hole round for the 108 holes.

Ten Years Ago Today—Jack Britton, world's welterweight champion, successfully defended his title against Mickey Walker by flooring the 20-year-old-challenger for a 9-count in the first round and then outpointing him in the remaining 11 rounds.

Tucker Faithful Is Going Into Pictures

New York, July 13—(UP)—Miss Tucker Faithful, sister of Starr Faithful, whose recent death constituted a major mystery, is going into the pictures—but pictures only for hats and gowns.

She has arranged to pose for a commercial photographer for gowns and hats only, it was made known by her step father, Stanley Faithful, when questioned about reports that she might go on the stage.

He made it clear in a statement to the United Press that she had no contract to go on the stage and likewise no plans for such a career.

Run for Office? Swim, Rather!

Running for office may be a hot job for some politicians, but for Marshall Duffield, noted University of Southern California football star, it's just a lark. Marshall, in case you haven't heard, is a candidate for mayor of his home town, Santa Monica, Calif., and here he is on the beach coolly talking over the prospects of his campaign with Dorothy Lee, film actress.

What Averages Of Big Leagues Show This Week

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, July 18—(AP)—Starting a belated drive to regain the National League batting supremacy he held last season, Bill Terry, slugging first baseman of the New York Giants, pounded 12 hits in 27 times at bat during the past week to climb from fifth place to third place among the regulars and within 11 points of the leader.

Terry's 444 week boosted his average to .348, compared to the .359 mark of Chuck Klein of the Phillies and the .356 average of Virgil Davis, big Phillie catcher. Other leaders were Hendrick, Cincinnati, .345; Hogan, New York, .345; Grimm, Chicago, .343; Cuyler, Chicago, .341; Hornsby, Chicago, .337; Allen, New York, .333; Roettger, St. Louis, .331; and Arlett, Philadelphia, .327.

In addition to holding his batting leadership, Klein continued to monopolize the honors in four other departments. His 23 home runs placed him far ahead of the field; he had made the most hits, 123, had knocked in the most runs, 79, and had crossed home plate 81 times. The Phillie star, who did not train a day last spring, displays no indication of letting up in his furious pace.

The few individual honors to escape Klein thus far are distributed among Rogers Hornsby, Manager of the Chicago Cubs, who had hit 30 doubles; Bill Terry, Giant star, who has collected 11 triples, and Hazen Cuyler of the Cubs, and Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh each of whom has stolen 11 bases.

Dick Bartell of the Phillies stands second in number of doubles, with 28. Watkins of St. Louis, is second in number of triples, with 10.

Watson Clark, Brooklyn southpaw, and Jackie May of the Chicago Cubs, have compiled the highest winning averages among the league's pitchers. Clark has won 8 and lost 2, while May has won 4 out of 5 games. Jim Elliott of the Phillies, has 12 victories to his credit more than any hurler in the league, but has lost 8.

The Chicago Cubs top the seven other clubs both in hitting and fielding. Collectively, the Hornsbys are hitting an even 300 and fielding at a 977 clip. The Giants stand second in hitting at 296, the Boston Braves last with a mark of 262.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—Eddie Morgan of Cleveland, a holdout who made good the same season, again has replaced Babe Ruth as the leader in the American League batting championship race.

Unofficial averages, including games of Thursday, showed that while the Bambino's mark fell from .391 to .376 that Morgan climbed into the lead with his .381 record. It was the first time in three weeks that Ruth was shoved out of the lead and it was Morgan who accomplished the trick the last time.

Lou Gehrig, another first baseman of note with the New York Yankees, stood out as the individual batting leader of the three, however. He led in four specialties with 87 runs, a total base collection of 227, a leading total of 25 home runs and in runs batted in with 91. His batting mark was .354.

All of the leaders, except Chapman were among the big ten hitters in the league, the unofficial averages disclosed. The leaders: Morgan, Cleveland, .381; Ruth, New York, .376; D. Harris, Washington, .364; Simmons, Philadelphia, .362; Goslin, St. Louis, .361; Gehrig, New York, .35

Two Youths To Play Western Open Final

Portland Golf Club, Portland, Ore., July 18—(UP)—Two youths, just out of their teens, set out today to decide the Western Amateur golf championship.

They were Donald Kermit Moe, a junior in the College of Law at the University of Oregon, and Malcolm MacNaughton, another Portland youth who has been studying at Stanford University.

Moe sought his second western amateur title. MacNaughton is Pacific Coast intercollegiate champion. Moe won the third and a "rubber" match yesterday by taking out Johnny Lehman of Chicago, 4 and 3 in the semi-finals under a torrid sun. The long-driving MacNaughton eliminated the veteran Walker Cup player, Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, 2 and 1.

Water Valley, Miss., July 18 (UP)—Sam Whitaker, 18, and Emmett Shaw, 40, Negroes, were hanged in the Yalobusha county jail Friday as the convicted slayers of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wagner, wealthy couple found hacked to death with an axe on May 4.

An hour after they were pronounced dead, their bodies were placed in open caskets in front of the court house, where a large crowd viewed them.

LIGHT PLANT EARNS MONEY
Holland, Mich.—(UP)—A net profit of $161,344.79 was shown last year by the municipal light and water plant of Holland, according to figures just made public. The municipally owned plant was started in 1894 and has shown a constant profit.

CONFERENCE OF BIBLE STUDENTS CLOSES TOMORROW

Enthusiasm Is Growing As Fine Meeting Nears
Its Completion

The enthusiasm is still rising in the Rock River Bible Conference with two outstanding Bible teachers. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan and Dr. Alvin E. Bell presenting the great truths contained in the Book of all Books. The sessions are veritable feasts of good things and reveal the fact that the Word of God still attracts and manifests its power in the hearts and lives of men.

Dr. Zartman, who is putting in his best as chairman of the conference started yesterday's session with the devotionals. Dr. Bell presented the third lesson in the Acts of the Apostles. In a masterful way he led the audience through Paul's last missionary journey. The journeys of Paul were a colossal undertaking. Think of the miles covered. The first journey must have covered fifteen hundred miles. The second three times further, the third about the same mileage as the second. The whole world was Paul's parish, but no matter as to his treatment by his brethren, he never began his work in a new territory without giving the Jews a chance to accept Christ. You may have life but limited light as revealed in Paul's dealings with his hearers in many occasions. Selfishness pretended diety was manifested by the leaders of the Jews. Bible students should not loose sight of the key verse in the study which is Acts 1:8.

At three o'clock, Dr. Morgan presented his study on "Grace and Personality." The basis of his discourse was Cor. 15:10. "But by the grace of God I am what I am." The speaker said in part: "This text is the very atmosphere of the letter to the Corinthians. When we quote this passage we confess our indebtedness to God. We are nothing without Him but Paul here challenges his hearers to come and examine him that they might see what the grace of God can do for a man. This is the great resurrection chapter. He writes of how Christ was seen by Cephas, then the twelve and then by five hundred after that by James and all the Apostles and last Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago Temple.

"We already have a modified form of that equalization process in effect in the Rock River conference," he continued. "We also have what might be called a minimum wage in Chicago for Methodist preachers. As superintendent of the City Missionary Society, I guarantee a minimum of $2,000 and parsonage to every active clergyman who has a family.

"Several months ago a movement was launched in the Rock River conference for a voluntary contribution by the higher paid ministers up to two per cent of their income to be distributed among the pastors and missionaries in the poorer districts. Virtually all agreed to co-operate.

"All over the country this movement is underway, with conferences either voting a compulsory assessment, as in California, or making it voluntary, as here in Rock River conference. I expect to see it presented on the floor of the next Methodist general conference at Atlantic City in May, 1932, by leaders from Chicago."

Methodist salaries in Chicago run from $2,000 to $12,000 or $15,000 a year.

Insane Murderer Starvation Victim

Augusta, Me., July 18—(UP)—Benjamin H. Turner, 43, serving a life sentence for murder, died of starvation at the state insane hospital here after an 18 day hunger strike.

Turner, a native of Apponose county, Iowa, shot and killed James D. Hallen at Falmouth Foreside, on September 8, 1926, after trailing him thousands of miles during a two-year search. Turner claimed Hallen had defrauded him of a large sum of money in Mexico.

Sentenced to life imprisonment in 1927, Turner had made eight fruitless appeals to the Governor for a pardon. On June 30 he began a hunger strike at state prison in Thomaston. Subsequently he was adjudged insane and last Tuesday was admitted to the state hospital here.

Forced feeding was resorted to in an effort to save his life, but this failed.

22 TROUGHS REFUTE "ONE HORSE" STATEMENT

Grand Junction, Mich.—(UP)—Business men of this summer resort town are gunning for the practical joker who placarded several stores and the Catholic church with Chicago's department of health contagious disease signs.

Dozens of resort visitors are reported to have hastily decamped recently when they awoke to find the stores and church bearing signs reading chicken pox, diphtheria, meningitis, and other diseases.

Evidence that man had reached a well-developed stage of mining activity when mastodons trod the earth has been uncovered in South Africa.

Duck Shortage Growing Worse, Survey Proves

Washington—When wild ducks migrate southward from Canada next fall their winging army will be the smallest on record, an official report received by the American Game Association from the Biological Survey indicates.

A continuation of drought conditions in breeding grounds this spring and early summer have accentuated critical conditions facing waterfowl, according to the Bureau's announcement of preliminary observations made in a survey of breeding ranges in the northern plains states and the prairie provinces of Canada. The Bureau is co-operating with Canadian officials.

This year's hatch will prove to be the smallest on record, because of a prolonged scarcity of rainfall which has caused marshy breeding areas to dry up, the first results of the study show.

The report, verifying advice previously received by the game association from many sources, comes at a time when sportsmen, conservationists and others interested in the wild fowl situation are already alarmed over the 50 per cent decrease in the numbers of ducks noted during the past shooting season.

Further protection to the duck supply during the next open season will be offered by new amendments to the federal regulations, reducing the waterfowl open season by two weeks in every state, and reducing the bag limit from 25 to 15 a day.

"It is generally recognized," the Bureau report states, "that the conditions now confronting the wild fowl of North America are the most serious in our history."

PAY BOOSTS CUT OLD-FASHIONED CHURCH SUPPERS

Pastors' Benefit Suppers
Now Replaced by Assessments

Chicago.—(UP)—The traditional benefit and social, or the community "pound party" for the impoverished village preacher has disappeared because his salary has been increased.

A system whereby the more highly paid clergymen are assessed a small percentage of their salaries has been adopted by a California conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"This is in the line with the general movement to raise the standard of ministerial remuneration," said Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago Temple.

"We already have a modified form of that equalization process in effect in the Rock River conference," he continued. "We also have what might be called a minimum wage in Chicago for Methodist preachers. As superintendent of the City Missionary Society, I guarantee a minimum of $2,000 and parsonage to every active clergyman who has a family.

"Several months ago a movement was launched in the Rock River conference for a voluntary contribution by the higher paid ministers up to two per cent of their income to be distributed among the pastors and missionaries in the poorer districts. Virtually all agreed to co-operate.

"All over the country this movement is underway, with conferences either voting a compulsory assessment, as in California, or making it voluntary, as here in Rock River conference. I expect to see it presented on the floor of the next Methodist general conference at Atlantic City in May, 1932, by leaders from Chicago."

Methodist salaries in Chicago run from $2,000 to $12,000 or $15,000 a year.

SOLDIER SAVES PAY TO BUILD MODEL AIRSHIP

Granting of Patent Brings Cavalryman Tentative Offers for Dirigible

El Paso, Tex.—(UP)—The savings that he collected from his salary of from $21 to $45 a month to buy tools and materials for the construction of a new dirigible airship model may give a return of thousands of dollars to George Deuring, 25, Fort Bliss soldier.

Deuring, a horseshoer of Troop E, Seventh Cavalry, has been granted a patent on his dirigible. Soon after the patent was granted he received tentative offers by interested parties.

The story of how Deuring saved his money from his meager army salary is one of self-denial and a determination to achieve success. Hammering away at his forge, for which work he received as low as $21 a month and never more than $45, Deuring laid aside his pay except just enough to provide personal necessities.

With this money he purchased tools and materials for his model, which he conceived six years ago when a German school boy. He came to the United States from Germany only four years ago.

The invention embodies a pair of elongated cylindrical bodies, arranged parallel with each other, each body being adapted to receive a lighter than air gas. Arranged between these cylindrical containers is an elongated cabin structure which cooperate with them in increasing the lifting and carrying capacity.

The craft resembles two airships with the cabin between. The airship is designed to materially increase the lifting and carrying capacity of this type of aircraft.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CASS BARRETT, actress in a New York stock company, is glad to get her young daughter, LIANE, out of the city for the summer. At Willow Stream, Ill., Liane plays in a theater sponsored by rich Mrs. CLEESPAUGH. Liane meets a fascinating man named YAN ROHARD. Her mother asks her not to see him any more. One night she goes with him to search for MURIEL LADD, a debutante who is believed to have eloped with CHUCK DESMOND, a debauched reporter. The couple turn up later, ELSIE WINTER, the ingenue, tells Liane there is gossip about Van and Muriel's mother. The girl is crushed.

Cass goes on tour in the fall, leaving Liane with Mrs. Cleespaugh. When she is taken seriously ill in Philadelphia, Liane goes to her. She hears Rohard and Muriel are engaged. Cass returns to the Cleespaughs' for convalescence. CLIVE CLEESPAUGH asks Liane to marry him. At first she refuses, but later, considering her mother's plight, accepts. MRS. AMBERTON and her sister TRESSA LORD, come to visit the Cleespaughs. Tressa is hateful to Liane. Rohard makes love to Liane and she informs him she is to be married. CLIVE tells his mother of his engagement and she is pleased.

CHAPTER XXII

AN office boy brought in a card to the shift-eyed man in the swivel chair. The shift-eyed man read it, ran his grimy finger appraisingly over the pasteboard and said, "Tell her to come in."

He did not rise. His lids drooped with scarcely veiled insolence. "Miss—ah Lord?" He pretended to consult the card again. The tall girl wrapped in her furs, a little half veil concealing the upper half of her mobile face, nodded haughtily.

"Cut out the acting," she said, curtly. "Just because I haven't seen you since Florida is no reason for you to pretend you've forgotten me."

The man smiled evily.

"I thought you preferred the ah—connection to be severed. I paid you well. You said you wanted to get out. Haven't seen you since. What's on your mind now? I suppose you're in the red again. You dames never come around unless you want money. Not a one of you," he whined in mock pathos, "does a hand's turn for friendship's sake."

"Friendship?" The young woman in fur sneered.

"If I have what I call a hot tip I come to you. Otherwise I stay away. I don't like you and it's to your advantage not to tell anyone you know me. I've got a tip now. What will you pay?"

The man spread out talon-like hands in a curiously expressive gesture. He shrugged faintly.

"Whaddya got?"

"It's good," said the girl quietly.

"Good for the sheet or good for the racket?"

It was her turn to shrug now.

"How do I know? Maybe one, maybe both. Either way it's what you call juicy."

The man reached into a pocket of his wrinkled coat and produced a greasy looking packet of cheap cigarettes.

"Have one?"

The girl's movement of withdrawal was so faint that another might not have seen it. The man did and his lips curled back over his yellowed teeth.

"Too nice for these, heh?" "I smoke my own, thanks." She tapped one on a black enameled case and lighted it.

"Well, spill it. Things have been quiet lately. I can stand a break."

The girl began to speak. Her voice rose and fell eagerly.

At the end of her recital the man said shrewdly, "What you got against this doll? Sounds personal to me."

"You mind your own business!" Her voice had an unaccustomed shrillness.

He shrugged again. "None of my funeral. It's good. We'll hop to it. What say we jump the young gent right away? He'll pay plenty."

She stood up. "You do it my way, or it's out. I tell you it will work."

"Oke, baby. You haven't muffed anything in the past. Why don't you come in with me regular? We'd make a team."

She laughed.

"Thanks. It only interests me as a side line. And only when I'm hard up. Remember if you ever try any funny business on me that I know more to your disadvantage than you do to mine. I can deny ever having seen you. But your record—"

His eyes glittered. "Forget it! We've had this out before. I'm a good guy if you treat me right."

"She was drawing on her gloves."

"I know. I just wanted to remind you."

She went down the dirty stairs, picking her way meticulously. The man watched until the street door closed after her. He grinned.

"These dames," he muttered.

"High hat as the devil and mean as hell! What's it to me?"

"WHERE have you been?" Fanny demanded petulantly from her station at a corner table in the Ritz. "I've been waiting for hours. You said you'd be here at one."

Tressa smiled good-humoredly. "I stopped at one or two places and you know how hard it is to get any place in this traffic."

Fanny held up two fingers and the captain rushed toward them.

"Do let us see a menu," she demanded pettishly. "I'm starving."

Tressa refused to let her sister's crossness spoil the delicious luncheon she presently ordered. She was vivacious. Her eyes danced and she chatted animatedly. When she espied two or three people she knew she waved to them.

"There's Van and Muriel," Tressa announced, ignoring Fanny's cold politeness. Poor Fanny who was always abysmally out of sorts when she was hungry.

"Where?"

"Over there behind that woman in the purple hat. Did you ever see such a headpiece? It's positively pre-war!"

Fanny who had now consumed her soup giggled. She was mollified by the sight of that ridiculous hat. It made her own seem brilliant.

"Oh, but that's Lady Devenant. She can get away with clothes like that."

Tressa shrugged. "She looks like a horse."

"Yes, but doesn't she? She's a quaint old piece. Frightfully rich. She asked Bill and me to stay at her place in Surrey once years ago but Bill had flu and we couldn't go. I was terribly disappointed."

Tressa wasn't listening. Fanny rambled on. "Look, Tressa, I'll stop at her table as we go out. She's taken a marvelous place at Palm Beach for January. The biggest one there—the one with the most gilt on the roof. Perhaps she'll ask us. You'd like that, wouldn't you?"

"No, not a bit. Besides, I don't think I shall be leaving New York so early."

FANNY was so horrified she put down her knife and fork which she took pains to handle in what is known as the continental manner.

"So early? What on earth do you mean? You know how desolate town is after Christmas. Why, you were saying only yesterday that you hoped we could break away before that!"

"I know but I've changed my mind," Tressa smiled enigmatically.

Fanny sniffed. "Of all the insane notions! What have you got up your sleeve?"

"Nothing at all. Or yes, perhaps I want to stay for the Beaux Arts ball. I haven't been since the year I came out. They say it's a grand party."

Fanny planted her elbows firmly on the table and took a sip of water from a glass of sapphire color.

"Now, Tressa, don't dare to look me in the eye and talk such nonsense! I know you're not going to hang around New York for any such silly reason. What is it all about? You might as well tell me."

Tressa frowned in annoyance. "You do make a fuss about nothing at all."

Fanny brushed this away as irrelevant. "I know you. And Eva's going to be relieved when we take ourselves off. I shan't dare to broach the subject of any such extended visit. She'll be busy this winter if her plans work out as she thinks."

Lazily Tressa announced, "Oh, you needn't broach the subject at all. Trust me. I'll have Eva begging me to stay. You needn't hang around unless you want to. Go south if you like and I—well, maybe I'll join you later."

Fanny shook her head in perplexity. "It's all beyond me. For days now you've been raging to be up and away. You said it was unendurable to stay at Eva's with that girl jorling it over you! Although where you get that crazy notion I can't think. She's the pleasantest person imaginable."

"Don't start on that again," Tressa snapped.

But Fanny was persistent. "I shall if I like. I'm frankly baffled. I'd almost got round to buying our tickets for the south."

"Well, don't. At least, don't buy one for me."

She erased the frown for a smile as Van and Muriel approached their table. "Stop a minute. Fanny and I are boring each other stiff. We long for a bit of gossip to cheer us up."

Muriel sat down with a clatter of bracelets and vanity boxes. "Don't know a thing. Sorry! Every thing's dead. Give me a cigaret, somebody."

Van produced one and conversation halted as it was lighted.

"What," Fanny Amberton inquired maliciously, "did girls say to men before they learned to ask for cigarets?"

"They pouted," Van told her proudly. "Or they blushed and smiled."

"Not a blush or a smile in the lot of 'em now, more's the pity," Fanny remarked briskly.

MURIEL had slumped back in her seat, looking extraordinarily like a painted doll. She had a taste for the faintly bizarre in clothes and today

HULL ABROAD TO MAKE OWN STUDY OF PROHIBITION

Peoria Congressman Is Not Satisfied With Others' Findings

Springfield, Ill., July 18—(UP)—Not satisfied with the findings and the attitude taken by numerous commissions which have made studies of prohibition, both in this and other nations, Congressman William Hull, Peoria, has taken it upon himself to become thoroughly acquainted with the Swedish system of liquor control and has gone to Sweden to make a study of it.

Holding no commissions and paying his own expenses Hull plans to spend several weeks in Sweden during which he hopes to study both the good and bad points of the liquor system in effect there.

Hull represents in Congress what at one time was considered a "hub" in the nation's liquor distillery business, because of the many distilling plants operated in the vicinity of Peoria and Pekin.

"I want to see whether this Swedish system does what is claimed for it," Hull said before sailing for New York. "My plan is to go to the limit to find out how much the country likes it, whether it fosters or lessens drinking, how much drunkenness there is, how much grain it provides a market for, and any other pertinent details."

"What Congress ought to have before discussing possible changes in the present dry laws is some basis of comparison and I am going as far as is necessary to inform myself. Needless to say, a plan that would work abroad might be a total failure in this country."

"If it strikes me that the Swedish plan could not be applied in the United States, I intend to say so. I am particularly interested in learning whether it could be used wholly or in part, under the 18th amendment, or what changes in the amendment would be necessary to make it legal."

The last study of the Swedish system was conducted by a representative of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment who prepared a pamphlet on it that has already run into several editions. Among students of prohibition reform, it has received more attention than the various Canadian plans, because it regulates the sale of beverages according to the consumers habits, rather than attempting a horizontal reduction in per capita consumption.

A sliding scale governed by the consumer's habit, is substituted for the single rate system, with a maximum of four litres of spirits or about four and one fifth quarts, a month. Those upon whom effect of liquor is injurious get only a small amount, or may be denied entirely.

The sudden death of Mrs. George Knapp of Iowa came as a shock to the members of the Knapp family early in the week. George Knapp is a brother of Robert, Willard and Stephen Knapp and Mrs. E. S. Lincolton of Ashton. For many years the George Knapp family have lived at Ute, Iowa, and often visited the relatives in this community.

Mrs. Anna Quick who fell, fracturing a bone several weeks ago, has been a patient at the Dixon hospital for several weeks and is now recovering sufficiently well to permit her removal to her home here shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daily, both members of pioneer families of north of town, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on August 17. Simple plans for entertaining their many friends of the vicinity are being made when this congenial couple whose home has been one of great hospitality, will hold open house to their scores of friends. Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Dailey and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dugdale, who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary two years before, made a call upon the bride and groom of sixty years ago, using the old fashioned tandem cutter as their method of conveyance. The jingling bells attracted much more attention on the sixtieth wedding anniversary of the Hunts than it did on their bridal day since in those days such conveyances were about the only methods used for such occasions.

Guests at the Harry Wilson home during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Del Poole, Mr. and Mrs. William and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fredrickson, all of Mt. Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wishard will be hosts to a number of relatives of Mr. Wishard from Pennsylvania, the coming week. Among the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wishard and two children, Raymond Wishard and Vesta and Ruth Wishard.

Llewellyn Biggers has been having a painful experience with a bruise which developed an infection on his fore arm.

Nell Ugland and son, Bernard, of Aurora, have been guests at the I. T. Grover home.

Mrs. Henry Stephan of Kenosha, Wis., has been assisting in the care of her mother, Mrs. John Weishaar, who has been very ill the past week.

A bakery sale will be held by the M. E. church in the Klingebiel sales room occupying the Rosecrans building on Saturday.

Mrs. Henry Stephan of Abingdon has been a guest at the home of her son, George.

Donald Yocum's car is laid up for repairs because of a crash between his Ford and a Chevrolet on Wednesday evening.

Lloyd Attig has been chosen to serve on the grand jury for the fall term of court.

Mrs. J. Raymer and her father expect to motor to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to bring Keith and John Chapman home. The boys have been enjoying a visit with relatives in that community.

The Rev. C. D. Wilson is host to his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Warner of Tusculum, Tenn., and her husband, Prof. Warner and their small son, Bobbie. Prof. Warner is an inspector at the Tusculum University of Tenn.

Editor and Mrs. Dean will attend the picnic given at Rock River farms by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick on Saturday. Mrs. McCormick will be hostess to the editors and wives of new 15th congressional district.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schabacker announce the birth of a son, Mrs. Freind Smith is hostess to Miss Electa Suter of Los Angeles.

J. A. Rossler left early in the week for a trip in Iowa.

John Absher will have charge of the sale of oil at the Ford garage, taking over his duties on Monday morning.

Clarence Covig was overcome with heat while at work in the harvest field on Tuesday.

Mrs. S. T. Jennings, who has been quite ill is reported as showing slight recovery.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Tavernier and family, formerly of Ashton M. E. church, have been guests of Ashton friends.

Although seats for 400 have been provided at the weekly free movie, sponsored by local merchants, many have been obliged to stand at the weekly picture. All report enjoying the entertainment put on by the Ashton merchants at the weekly movie.

Mrs. Erbin Roessler and son are guests at the J. A. Rossler home, expecting to spend the next three weeks at the Roessler home.

Wynne Helenthal is a patient at Lincoln Hospital of Rochelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph LeFevre, Leo Rintoul, and Miss Hazel Rhodes, and Miss Margaret Strock all of Dixon. Chester Rhodes and Miss Ethel Poffenberger, Mrs. I. J. Kendall and son, Howard of Palmyra and Murrell Kendall and Everett Wilkinson of Sterling. Supper was served cafeteria style on the lawn surrounding the weiner furnace, which the girls had remodeled. Miss Loraine was just a little surprised although she was aware of several of the guests coming to spend the evening. Her aunt, Mrs. S. Parks presented her with a lovely cake with candles set in the number 13. White with pink trim. Miss Loraine was also remembered with a handkerchief shower when a parsonal opened over her and showered her with dainty remembrances from those present. At a late hour all departed for their homes wishing Loraine many more happy birthdays.

by his government 24 times for his bravery during the World War and once a special pilot for the Kaiser, plans to return from Budapest to Cincinnati and become an American citizen, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Endres announced today. Endres and his companion, Captain Alexander Magyar, reached Budapest from Harbor Grace in their plane, "Justice for Hungary," Thursday.

"Yurga told me he would bring back money enough for radium treatments, anything I need, when he returns. I will go out to the field, too, to see him fly if I am better by that time," his mother said. "Yurga was always good to me—so were all my sons and my daughters, but Yurga got an education in a military school. Then he became an officer in the war, and a hero."

"After he was shot down as an aviator, and wounded, he served two years at the front, on the ground. Later he was captured and sent to Siberia, but escaped and rejoined his army," the beaming mother continued.

"Emperor Franz Josef gave his a special medal for that. Our son was the first in the Army to get personally from the Emperor a decoration at the beginning of the war."

"At the close of the war, when the Kaiser wanted a trusted flier, he asked Hungary for one and Yurga was sent. Yurga, we think, flew at least once with the Kaiser as passenger during the Kaiser's trip from Germany to Holland where he was exiled."

RATTLER AND KING SNAKE SPURNED PLAN FOR FIGHT Chattanooga, Tenn. —(UP)—Every year someone tries to get up a "snake-fight" somewhere in this land, and this year it was at the home of Bob Turner here.

A Tennessee rattler and a Texas King snake were the combatants, but the rattler merely tried to scale the ropes of the little squared ring, while the king snake tried desperately to dig a hole.

It all ended in a draw, as so many snake-fights do, with the gallery yelling "baloney."

HUGE MOUND OF HORNBLLENDE Kinco, Me.—(UP)—Mt. Kinco, 900 feet high and jutting into Moosehead Lake, is said to be the biggest single mass of hornblende in the world. Hornblende is rock containing considerable iron and occurs in distinct crystals and in columnar, fibrous and granular form. It once was used by Indians for arrowheads.
